Conservative Group Sponsors Candidate In School Board Race

Tatiana Ermalaev, Borough resident who has announced her candidacy for the school board, said in the course of an interview that she is a candidate sponsored by the conservative "Citizens for American System Education" known as CASE.

The group, which claims 111 school board candidates in 78 school districts across the state, follows the curriculum proposals of Lyndon H. LaRouche Jr. CASE hopes, according to a "Dear Tatiana" letter to the candidate, "to have 1,000 Jerseyans running 'with LaRouche' for Congress, county and municipal offices, Democratic and Republican county committee posts, as well as school board."

The letter defines the movement as "critical" in order to "break President Reagan free of the 'palace guard' headed by Henry Kissinger and his Eastern Establishment allies that now control the Administration."

Mrs. Ermalaev said that a CASE representative had telephoned her and asked her to run. She said she had signed a CASE request for names when the group had an information table in Princeton and the caller apparently obtained her name from that list.

"It is a conservative organization," Mrs. Ermalaev explained, "and I don't agree with some of their proposals too much, but I do believe we could improve our education." Her views are amplified in the interviews on page 1B.

According to CASE material which Mrs. Ermalaev gave a Town Topics reporter, the group supports what it calls "a New Kameralist Curriculum" — "the education of all

A PRESIDENT IS HONORED: A detail from Fort Dix, headed by the commanding general, came to Princeton last Sunday to lay a wreath on the grave of former President Grover Cleveland in the Princeton Cemetery. By tradition, the gravesites of all former U.S. Presidents are visited annually by local military commanders as representatives of the incumbent President. Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike and Borough Mayor Barbara B. Sigmund took part in the ceremony, which was held on the 147th anniversary of the birth of the nation's 22nd and 24th President. (Michaela McMillan photo)

Construction of New Collins Parking Garage May Lead to Ride-Sharing from Jadwin Lot

Ride-sharing may begin in Princeton by April 2, said Collins' Jerry Berner this week. Mr. Berner is temporary chair of the Ride Sharing Committee that has been talking about things like van pools, car pools and shuttle services for people shuttling in and out of Princeton for various reasons.

He is also, as a Collins executive, getting ready for next Monday's groundbreaking for construction of Collins' 560-car Chambers Street parking garage. He expects Mahoney and Troast, the Collins contractors, to complete the garage "in about a year."

The kind of ride-sharing that may start April 2 would have people who work in town parking in Princeton University's Jadwin Gym lots and riding car-pools into the Central Business District. Any shuttle service from Jadwin is in the future, Mr. Berner emphasized.

Cars that have been parking in the Chambers Street lot may or may not have a place to go. Fourteen of them had been parking there

Collins Refuses to Grant Extension Of Deadline for Decision on Appeals

Collins will not grant an extension of the April 10 deadline for Borough Council's decision on the four Collins appeals that will be heard before Council.

Two dates for beginning to hear the appeals have now been set: Wednesday and Thursday, April 4 and 5. Borough officials said it has not yet been decided which of the four will be heard first.

"We're not going to grant the extension," stated Collins' vice-president Gary Green. "Somebody is going to take it to a higher court, so why wait? Nobody has given me to understand that they would give in if they lose."

"I am sorry they would not accede to the granting of the extension and I hope they will re-consider," said Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund. "I would like to have these appeals heard fully, with the full participation by all on Council — including Barbara Hill."

The legality of Ms. Hill's presence on Council has been questioned (see page 3).

Mr. Green pointed out that during the months of Planning Board hearings on Collins' various plans, Collins granted "many, many extensions."

The chief reason for the closeness of the deadline is the delay in obtaining transcripts of Collins hearings before the Planning Board. They did not arrive from the court stenographer's office until

Macgill Won't Run For Borough Council

Richard Macgill will not run for a third term on Borough Council he announced this week.

Two Council members, Mr. Macgill and Peter Bearse, will complete their terms this year. Mr. Bearse, who is serving his first term, is running in the Democratic primary for his party's designation as Congressional candidate in the Fourth District.

He said this week that he is running "an aggressive primary campaign" for that nomination and is not prepared to say what action he will take about another term on Council.

Mr. Macgill, also a Democrat, was appointed to Council in April, 1978, to replace Gus Escher, who had resigned. He ran that November and was elected to his first term, running successfully again in 1981.

The Democrats must also fill the seat that will be vacated by Barbara Hill when she resigns from Council later this spring.

School Board to Ask N.J. Supreme Court To Hear Transfer Case

The school board will ask the New Jersey Supreme Court to hear the case of the board vs. teachers Lawrence Ivan and Thomas Murray.

Last week, Mr. Ivan and Mr. Murray won from the Appellate Division of Superior Court a ruling that Princeton's school board had to re-instate them in teaching positions from which they had been transferred. The court found that both Superintendent Paul Houston and Princeton High School principal John Sakala had acted in "bad faith" in recommending the transfers to the school board.

The board will also file a motion with the Appellate Division asking that court to stay the order to re-instate citizens of future true democratic republics based on the assimilation of a science of history of the struggle to create such republics, against irrationalism and feudalism oligarchism. Webster's Third International defines "cameralism" as "Mr. LaFontaine prefers the Greek spelling - with a 'k' - as an economist who strongly emphasizes the political factors in economics."

In its letter to Mrs. Ermalaev, CASE writes that it will produce campaign literature for her and will file finance disclosure reports with the state.

overnight on an arrangement with the Borough at a monthly rate of $5. Collins offered them space in the Hulsfish lot at the same monthly rate - $42 - as apartment tenants. So far, only two have signed up, Mr. Berner said.

Most Chambers cars are there short term. Effective April 1, Collins will increase the capacity of the Hulsfish lot by reducing the number of monthly parkers. Employees of the Nassau Inn will be required to find other places to park. Others who have monthly parking arrangements but are not tenants of Palmer Square, have been reduced.

All of this will add 82 short-term spaces. They will be open to anybody.

"The University has been very cooperative in making parking available for fringe parking," Mr. Berner said, adding that the Ride-Sharing committee is still working out procedures.

For the future, a van pool arrangement is possible, perhaps involving a van pool company whose services would be provided either by a corporation or by individuals buying space on a contract basis.

He said the committee isn't sure a van pool would work in Princeton because the distances are not great. Car pooling or fringe-and-shuttle is more likely, he surmised. There has also been discussion of a privately-owned shuttle which could transport employees or perhaps run a shuttle for shoppers during off-peak hours. A shuttle might, for example, go between Princeton's CBD and the Carnegie Center on Route One.

Members of the Ride-Sharing Committee, besides Mr. Berner, are Leslie C. Vian for Princeton University; lawyers A.C. Reeves, Hicks and Michael Masanoff; Samuel M. Hamill II, executive director of the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council; Borough Council president Richard Woodbridge and Olindo Carnevale of the First National Bank.

Teacher Transfers

the teachers in their former jobs until after the school year has ended.

"A school board has a right to transfer teachers, even if they don't want to be transferred, because of the needs of the system," said board president Ann McGoldrick of the board's decision to ask the Supreme Court to consider the case.

She referred to this as "a straightforward right of the board," and said New Jersey statutes provide for "involuntary" transfers of teachers. It is not allowed, she pointed out, to punish teachers by moving them.

Both Mr. Ivan and Mr. Murray were physical education teachers at Princeton High School where they had taught for many years. Mr. Ivan was transferred to Littlebrook - an elementary school - and Mr. Murray to the Middle School. When Littlebrook was closed, Mr. Ivan was transferred to Community Park - also an elementary school where he now is. Mr. Murray is still at the Middle School.

The two teachers have charged that they were transferred because they had criticized Mr. Sakala for changing a failing gym grade to a medically-excused grade. The student's father was president of the school board at the time.

The Appellate Court agreed with them that "bad faith" was involved in the transfers. "We had been looking at the physical education program for some time," Mrs. McGoldrick explained. "We'd closed Johnson Park School, we had moved Bob Gilbert from Littlebrook to the Middle School because he had an excellent back-pack program at Littlebrook and we wanted to boost the environmental curriculum at the Middle School."

She said the transfer of Mr. Gilbert accomplished the board's goal.

She also asked what transfer powers the board might have in the future if Mr. Ivan and Mr. Murray win their case all the way to the top.

"Can we ever again transfer Larry or Tom? If so, under what circumstances?"

It is the view of board and administration, she explained, that from time to time teachers need "to look with a fresh eye" in a new setting. For its request to the Supreme Court - and that court may not agree to hear the case, leaving Mr. Ivan and Mr. Murray victors - the board has retained additional counsel, Clapp and Eisenberg of Newark will work with board attorney William Hartigan.

A "SISTER CITY" pairing of Princeton with a community of similar size in the Soviet Union will be proposed to Borough Council this Thursday at Council's 8 p.m. work session in Borough Hall. Don Blankenbush and Hinda Winawer of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament will propose that the Borough accept a pairing with Shekino, a town about the same size as Princeton and about the same distance from Moscow that Princeton is from New York.

So far, according to Mr. Blankenbush, 35 towns in New Jersey have begun pairing with cities in the U.S.S.R., mostly under the auspices of the Ground Zero Pairing Project, which proposed Shekino for Princeton.

If Council approves - and Township Committee already has - letters from both governing bodies would be sent to Shekino. Another letter would then be written which the Coalition hopes that many in the community would sign. This would be sent to Shekino along with descriptive material about Princeton.

WHERE IS HOME?

More Attacks on Hill. Another Collins opponent, Gerald Boswell, has joined R. William Potter in Mr. Potter's effort to remove Barbara Hill from Council.

Mr. Potter has said candidly that he wants Ms. Hill off Council because she has supported Collins in the past and he is scheduled to appear before Council with an appeal approval of Collins plans. Both Mr. Potter and Mr. Boswell are lawyers with the New Jersey Office of the Public Advocate.

At last week's Council meeting, Mr. Boswell started things off by questioning the legal right of Ms. Hill to sit on Council. She and her husband, Raymond, have sold their Hawthorne Avenue house but the final closing has not yet taken place. Mr. Hill works in New York and Ms. Hill has just begun a new job there. She announced last week that she will be resigning from Council and leaving Princeton after the closing on her house.

Mr. Potter claims to know that the closing date is April 1. Ms. Hill says it is not, but declines to give the date. In a two-and-one-half page letter to Ms. Hill, delivered to her at Tuesday's meeting, Mr. Potter repeated the charges he made last week.

"You needn't consummate your decision to leave for your residency (in the Borough) to lapse," Mr. Potter wrote. "It is sufficient that you have framed the express intention to leave and that you have taken steps which evidence that intention."

He quoted several cases in New Jersey law, commenting, "in short, you must not only live in Princeton, you must intend to remain here 'permanently and indefinitely' not temporarily or for some special purpose, if you are to remain eligible to sit and vote on the Council."

Ms. Hill reminded him and Council members of Nelson van den Blink who announced her intention of resigning from Council and remained an active member until the date she had chosen for her resignation to take effect. She resigned from Council in January, 1983, "I own a house," she said. "I live here. I will stay until my house is sold. I am interested in staying as long as I am a legal resident."

She said she has been assured by lawyers she has talked to that she does meet residency requirements.

Council asked its counsel, Walter Bliss, to study the problem and give an opinion. Although Mr. Bliss suggested Council might want to bring in another lawyer to make that decision, Council demurred.

Mr. Bliss told Council that he would not, at the moment, find any reasons to disqualify Ms. Hill.

Ms. Hill has declined further comment on Mr. Potter's letter. "It is really sad, really distressing, to have to leave in this fashion," she said this week. "I can guess one hundred percent why this is being done - I voted for Collins and they are afraid I will again. I think it is a subversion of the democratic process."

DEADLINE THURSDAY

For Housing Suit. This Thursday is the deadline for the threatened court action by Calton Homes against Princeton Township unless Township Committee has in the works the kind of "Mt. Laurel" zoning ordinance Calton wants in order to build 1,280 houses.

But the Township has suggested a discussion meeting instead. Municipal attorney Edwin Schmieder has said that he hopes to meet this week with Calton's attorney, Henry Hill. He has also sent Calton a copy of the Township's affordable-housing study.

Next Wednesday, March 28 at 7:30 in the Valley Road building, the Planning Board will hold the first in a series of public meetings on the Affordable Housing proposals of John Nolon and Alan Mallach, the Township's consultants. It is the first in a series of meetings at which the board will consider adopting the program. Some of the meetings will be actual public hearings on Master Plan housing amendments now being drafted.

The report and a summary of it, may be examined in the office of the Planning Board, the Township clerk or at the public library. It may also be bought at the Planning Board office.

After last Wednesday's discussion of the plan before the Planning Board, members George Adriance, Margen Penick and Tom Poole formed a sub-committee to examine the proposals.

Mrs. Penick said, at that meeting, that she thought the Affordable Housing Program was a good one which would keep the "appearance" of Princeton. Because it provides for "in-filling" and increased density, it means the appearance of the town can be maintained, she commented. To say that open space can be given away in order to meet density requirements would be wrong, she said. She also emphasized that she doesn't want height restrictions waived.

Then she asked, "If we have a voluntary program to provide lower-cost housing, will we get enough?"

Mr. Mallach's figures show that Princeton will need to provide 873 units of lower-income housing by 1990. He found that between 1970 and 1980, the income mix of families in the Princeton community did not change significantly, however, Borough and Township differed sharply from each other. In the Township, probably because both Princeton Community Village and Redding Terrace were built during that decade for lower-income families, the lower-income population increased slightly. In the Borough, it declined significantly.

TO MEET ON SEWERS? Borough suggests. A Borough-Township meeting on a possible sewer connection ban may be held Thursday, April 19, although the two mayors have not yet talked with one another to set a date.

Meanwhile, Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund will meet later this week with John McGee, chair of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority and its Township representative, to discuss the way sewer use costs are determined. Mayor Sigmund still wants a zero-based budget from the Authority.

Mayor Sigmund took issue this week with Dwight O. North for defending the Authority from the mayor's complaints about its budget and procedures. The mayor said Mr. North developed much of his analysis from the assumption that she was basing sewer plant cost comparison on data from past years when she was not.

She explained that she has been comparing projected 1984 costs for Princeton and for the Ewing Lawrence Sewerage Authority, in order to "get some sort of handle on the kinds of costs we presently should be incurring for treatment of our effluent."

It was while examining current projected costs in each of the two systems that she found differences which were unfavorable to Princeton, she said, adding, "I am still waiting for a step-by-step treatment analysis — zero-based budget — to explain the overall budget that I requested a month ago."

At last week's Council meeting, municipal attorney Walter Bliss told Council that the Sewer Operating Committee does indeed have policy-making powers. The legality of the SOC's elimination of a no-connection zone has been questioned. Mr. Bliss added that the process for reversing an SOC decision is not clearly defined in its charter but presumably would require at least a majority vote by its three members — Borough, Township and Princeton University.

NEW RESIDENCE SET

For Boychoir School. Construction of the Ruth and Atherton Hobler Headmaster's Residence has begun on the 18-acre site of The American Boychoir School on Lambert Drive. Members of the Hobler family and their friends have honored 90-year-old Ruth W. Hobler and her late husband, Atherton W. Hobler, founder of Benton and Bowles Advertising, by providing the funds for the house.

Mrs. Hobler is an active supporter of the school, and her son, Herbert W. Hobler, chairman of the Nassau Broadcasting Company, is in 1974 to formulate a master plan for the Delaware and also chairman of the board of Raritan Canal State Park and trustees of The American Boychoir School.

The event was sponsored by the D&R Canal Coalition—a citizens group—and the Friends of Princeton Open Space, both of which are headed by Rosemary Blair. It was planned as a surprise for Mr. Sayen, who has served the Commission since it was established by the Legislature in 1974 to formulate a master plan for the Delaware and also chairman of the board of Raritan Canal State Park and trustees of The American Boychoir School.

PARTY IS HELD

To Honor Conservationist. Some 160 environmentalists and conservationists gathered Sunday afternoon at Morven for a reception to honor James C. Sayen as he steps down from the Delaware and Raritan Canal Commission.

The event was sponsored by the D&R Canal Coalition—a citizens group—and the Friends of Princeton Open Space, both of which are headed by Rosemary Blair. It was planned as a surprise for Mr. Sayen, who has served the Commission since it was established by the Legislature in 1974 to formulate a master plan for the Delaware and also chairman of the board of Raritan Canal State Park and trustees of The American Boychoir School.

Mrs. Hobler is an active supporter of the school, and her son, Herbert W. Hobler, chairman of the Nassau Broadcasting Company, is in 1974 to formulate a master plan for the Delaware and also chairman of the board of Raritan Canal State Park and trustees of The American Boychoir School.

The house, which will be located among trees just off the driveway entrance to the main house, was designed by board member and architect Jeremiah Ford III of the firm Short and Ford. The three-bedroom home has been conceived to fit in with the architecture of the main house known as Albemarle, which was originally built by the late Gerard B. Lambert in 1917.

The Headmaster's residence is expected to be finished in mid-summer and will be occupied by Stephen N. Howard, headmaster, and his wife. To meet the demands of increasing enrollment, the Howard's current on-premises apartment will be converted into much needed dormitory space.

The Commission is made up of the Commissioner of the Department Environmental Commission and eight citizens appointed by the Governor. In stepping down, Mr. Sayen has agreed to take on the monumental task of acquiring green space as a buffer to the development taking place along the Route 1 corridor.

Those attending the gathering included D&R Canal Commissioners whose terms continue, and citizens who have worked with Mr. Sayen over the years as he energetically led or supported efforts to preserve accessible open space in the midst of rapid development.

Thomas O'Neill, president of the Center for the Analysis of Public Issues who was with the DEP at the time the D&R Canal State Park and Commission were established, served as moderator for the tributes to the honored guest.

"We are here, not only to honor Jim Sayen," he said, "but also to honor the idea of the D&R Canal in preserving the best around us."

Margen Penick spoke of Mr. Sayen as "the person who has shaped the landscape through moving other people." As a member of the Township's Open Space Study Commission, which became the Open Space Commission and then the Environmental Commission, Mr. Sayen pushed for a policy of dedicating 25 percent of the Township's total land area to open space. This policy has led to the acquisition of some 2,300 acres of open space, which includes large parks and playgrounds as well as smaller neighborhood parks and play areas for active recreation, and reservations and flood plain areas for conservation and passive use.

The 25 percent policy was subsequently adopted in the Borough, where Mr. Sayen founded the Borough Environmental Commission in 1970, and was incorporated in the 1980 Master Plan.

Mr. Sayen presently serves on the Mercer County Park Commission and the D&R Canal Coalition. He is a former chairman of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association and founded the Princeton Friends of the Environment.

He was presented a plaque from Trenton Mayor Arthur Holland for "faithful service rendered to Trenton" and serenaded in song created and

ONE WOMAN STABBED

Another Woman Arraigned.

Women made some progress toward achieving equality in the male-dominated world of violent crime as a result of an altercation that took place in the early morning hours Sunday in front of the Ivy Inn on Nassau Street.

Borough Police charged a 21-year-old Princeton resident, Wanda James of Juniper Row, with aggravated assault, possession of an illegal weapon (a folding knife with a four-inch blade), and possession of cocaine. The police said she stabbed a 41-year-old Trenton resident, who was treated and released from the Princeton Medical Center with wounds in the arm and stomach.

The defendant was arraigned before Judge Russell W. Annich Jr., who remanded her to the Mercer County Detention Center pending grand jury action.

Police said that the incident occurred at about 2:15 a.m. when the defendant entered the bar and attempted to purchase some alcohol. She was refused service and an argument followed, with the participants moving from the bar into the parking lot, where the stabbing took place.

Borough detectives were entered sometime during the continuing investigation day last Friday through an and police said that more unlocked window.

charges, possibly involving other individuals, could be lodged.

NATURAL CAUSE CITED At the Springdale Golf Club, in Student's Death, Kelvin the theft of $300 in cash was Collins, a 21-year-old reported on Friday, though sophomore at Princeton Borough Police believe that University, apparently died of the theft occurred earlier in a pulmonary embolism sometime last week.

The body of Mr. Collins, an engineering student from Fort Worth, Texas, was discovered Sunday afternoon by his roommate at the Princeton Inn College. The roommate, who had just returned to campus after the spring vacation, notified University officials who called Borough police who in turn notified the Mercer County Prosecutor's office.

The county officials said they discovered no outward signs of foul play and no other unusual circumstances at the scene. The body was found in bed and officials speculated that Mr. Collins may have been dead for several days. University officials said they knew of no chronic illnesses suffered by the student.

An autopsy was performed on Monday. The preliminary report of the Medical Examiner indicated that the death was natural, caused by the embolism, or blood clot.

A memorial service for Mr. Collins was scheduled for this Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the University Chapel, with the Rev. Kenneth Jasko, associate pastor of the Nassau Christian Center and leader of the Alpha-Omega Christian Fellowship, officiating. Mr. Collins was a member of that fellowship as well as the Society of Black Engineers.

CASH AND SHOTGUNS Top Theft Report, Borough Police were investigating the theft of three Smith & Wesson shotguns from a Maple Terrace home, which was the week. Police saw no sign of forced entry and have no suspects in the case.

Bike, CB, Typewriter. A bicycle belonging to a Bayard Lane resident was reported stolen Sunday from a rack at the Princeton Shopping Center. Police said the bike's chain had been cut. It was a 26-inch, blue Schwinn 10-speed, valued at $90.

A car parked in the lot at the Princeton YMCA was entered sometime between 6 and 7:45 Monday evening. Thieves made off with a CB radio, hand tools, and books, which were valued at $207. Police said a window had been pried open to gain entry.

A portable Praxis typewriter, valued at $395, was stolen from a Nassau Street bookstore sometime overnight March 12. The thieves, who entered the

RESTROOM DAMAGED

At Shopping Center, Township Police reported that vandals struck at the restroom at the southern end of the Princeton Shopping Center sometime between 3 and 5:15 p.m. last Friday.

Trash cans were emptied, debris scattered, a tissue dispenser was damaged, and a gas pipe leading to a heater was broken.

Patrolman John Clausen was investigating. No estimate of damages was given.

MORE DEER STRUCK

On Township Roads, "Beware of Deer" signs should continue to be posted squarely in the minds of all area motorists. The creatures caused two more accidents on Township roads last week. Robert H. Yvell of 68 Thoreau Drive, Plainsboro, was traveling south on River Road last Friday at 6:20 p.m. when a deer ran into the path of his car.

At 9:43 p.m. on St. Patrick's Day Jack R. Brown of Convent Station ran into a deer in the vicinity of Lover's Lane and Stockton Street.

DWI & SPEEDERS

Earn Top Fines, Borough Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. fined Barbara Reeder-Robinson, 141 Hun Road, $265 and ordered her license revoked for six months for driving while intoxicated.

In other cases heard in court Monday night Judge Annich levied a total of $135 against Samuel G. Stokes of 24 Butternut Row for several motor vehicle violations, including driving an unregistered car without insurance and with a faulty muffler.

Speeding violations resulted in fines for the following area residents: Kevin Groome, 36 Taylor Road, $70; Mason Chesser, 46 Fisher Avenue, $70; Anne Hoffman, 27 Wilton Street, $90; Alexander Douglas, 81 Carter Road, $70; and Joseph M. Savino, 12 Tracey Drive, Lawrenceville, $80.

Other traffic violators included Frank C. Nichols, 889 Lawrence Road, fined $25 for failing to produce his driver's license.

Ruth B. Tomlinson, 54 Stoniker Drive, Lawrenceville, $60, failure to observe sign; William Teague, 28 Clay Street, $25, failure to produce license; Judith Winslow, 22 Alexander Street, $20, failure to change address; and Hans Peter Wurml, 1Q Magie Apartments, $60, failure to obey one-way traffic sign.

Also Caroline Thomas-Combs, 36 Mercer Street, $20, failure to produce license; Mark L. Taylor, 106 Stockton Street, $60, failure to obey stop sign; Mario A. Tamasi, 187 Valley Road, $60, failure to observe traffic signal; Elizabeth McCradie, 62 Hodge Road, $60, careless driving; Joseph Thomas, 65 Redding Circle, $60, driving in illegal lane; Frederick Sabb, 15 Meadow Lane, Pennington, $80, careless driving; James Chiavaroli, 4202 Quakerbridge Road, $20, overdue inspection; Jan Weinstein, 20 Green Street, $20, improper parking; and Albert Hammack, 122 1901 Hall, $20, blocking a driveway.

Four area motorists were fined in Township Court. John M. Anson of R.D. 4 was fined $75 for speeding; Lorin Zissman, R.D. 1, $75 for careless driving; and Estelle Golomb, 146 Philip Drive, and Heidi J. Nini, 423 Lawrenceville Road, Lawrenceville, fined $65 apiece for stop sign violations.

$1000 TO LIBRARY

To Teach Reading, Public Libraries of Princeton, Mercer County, Trenton and Hamilton have been given $1,000 from the B. Dalton Bookstore National Literacy Initiative.

The libraries all have volunteers who teach adults how to read. The money will buy books and other teaching materials, and pay support money for library staff who recruit the adult students.

Overall, 43 adults are now being tutored in these libraries. Each volunteer tutor meets with a student in the library twice a week, and spends a third hour in lesson preparation.

The next tutor-training course will be March 28, April 4, 11, 18 and May 2 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the Hamilton Township public library. Volunteers — or those who would like to learn to read — may call the Princeton public library at 924-6529.

He has served for more than ten years on the Inventors Subcommittee of the Patent, Trademark and Copyright Section of the American Bar Association. He is also president of Princeton Borough Council.

DYSON TO SPEAK
At Coalition Event. Noted physicist and author Freeman J. Dyson will speak on "The Cult of Obedience and the Cult of Destruction" at the second annual Membership Gathering of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament.

The event, which will also honor former Princeton High School student Ariela Gross and feature an account of her much-publicized meeting with President Reagan last June, is scheduled for 8 p.m. Sunday, March 25, at the Nassau Presbyterian Church.

Prof. Dyson, professor of physics at the Institute for Advanced Study for more than 30 years, is the author of "Weapons and Hope," excerpted in a four-part series in The New Yorker last month. His earlier work, "Disturbing the Universe," was also excerpted in that publication.

Freeman J. Dyson

Born and educated in England, Prof. Dyson has taught at a number of American and foreign universities. He is consultant to the U.S. Defense Department, space agency, disarmament agency, and weapons laboratories. He is also a member of U.S. National Academy of Sciences and was chairman of the Federation of American Scientists in 1962-63.

Ms. Gross, now a Harvard University freshman, went to Washington, D.C. last June to be honored as a recipient of a Presidential Scholarship, awarded to the nation's most promising high school graduates. She organized a petition to support a mutual U.S.-Soviet nuclear freeze and challenged President Reagan to support the freeze. She will discuss what transpired in her subsequent personal meeting with the President.

The event is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

WOMEN'S POETRY SET
For Dramatic Presentation.
Women talking to each other across space and time is the theme of "Sisters Across the Centuries," a dramatic presentation of women's poetry by both American and English writers from the 17th century to the present.

The program will be presented in Cafe, the basement of Murray-Dodge Hall on the Princeton University campus on Thursday at 8 p.m. It is sponsored by the Princeton University Chapel.

Four Greenwich women, poets and actresses, have developed a theatrical dialogue using the actual texts of the 50 poems chosen for their particular relevance to women's lives today. The group spent more than a year deciding on selections and sequences, and the finished script includes a wide range of women's attitudes on family relationships, love and work.

DISCOVERY ROOM OPEN.
At Watersheds Headquarters. The Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association has officially dedicated its new Discovery Room at the headquarters building on Titus Mill Road.

The new facility features hands-on exhibits. One depicts New Jersey geology with information for field trips and appropriate land use; another is a slide show on groundwater. There are also interactive exhibits on soils, a stream table, and displays of living organisms and pond life.

"Man and the Environment" is a many-faceted exhibit that looks graphically at current environmental issues like hazardous waste, acid rain and the impact of growth.

The new resource is open to the public from 9 to 5 during the week and on Saturdays by appointment. Those interested in bringing groups should call in advance to arrange special programs. Information is available from the Watersheds' office at 737-3735.

SWIM ON SUNDAYS
Pilot Project Continues. The YWCA will continue Sunday Open Swims through May 20. The pool will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday afternoons.

The hour from 1 to 2 will be for those who are disabled or over 60 with special needs. There will be a number of helpers on hand, as well as two physical therapists from the Princeton Medical Center in the water every week to offer encouragement and assistance. Family swim will be from 2 to 4 p.m.

The admission fee is $2 for members, $3 for non-members, and $5 for a family of a member. During this pilot project, YMCA membership will be honored as well.

For further information call the YWCA office, 924-3571.

friendship and loss, and women's place in the world. Poets range from Aphra Behn, the first "professional" woman writer, through Elizabeth Barrett Browning and Emily Dickinson, to contemporary poets Anne Sexton, Denise Levertov and Margaret Atwood.

The four performers are Mary Ann Hoberman, Jane Milliken, Madelyn O'Neill and Florence Phillips. The piece has been directed and choreographed by Melisa Cassell.

WRITER TO SPEAK

At Library. Steve Schlossstein, author of Kensei and Trade War, will speak Tuesday at 8 at the Public Library. His talk is part of the Writers Talking sponsored by the Library.

After six years of living and working in Japan, Mr. Schlossstein resigned as vice president of Morgan Guaranty Trust Company in 1982 to establish his own financial consulting firm. He lives on Patton Avenue and divides his time between Tokyo and New York.

Kensei is a novel that shows the samurai spirit applied to high-tech rivalries. Mr. Schlossstein's new non-fiction book, Trade War: Greed, Power, and Industrial Policy on Opposite Sides of the Pacific, addresses the subject of the U.S.-Japanese balance of trade in practical, human terms.

CANVASS IS PLANNED

Of Freeze Voters. Nuclear weapons freeze supporters working with Freeze Voter '84 will kick off their door-to-door canvasses on Saturday in Princeton. The volunteer effort will sign up voters who pledge to support pro-freeze candidates in the next election, and will also recruit volunteers and contributors.

According to Rachel Findley, the area Freeze Voter '84 canvass coordinator, some 50 volunteers will canvass throughout Princeton. Ms. Findley pointed out that Saturday's canvass is the first step in what will be an ongoing election year effort. "We plan to focus the overwhelming support for the Freeze that already exists on the upcoming elections," she said.

Freeze Voter '84 is the nuclear weapons freeze movement's political arm. It is organizing electoral support for a mutual, verifiable freeze on the testing, production, and deployment of nuclear weapons by both the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

The Washington-based political action committee plans to target 30 key U.S. House races, six to ten U.S. Senate races, and the Presidential race. It has a goal of enlisting more than one million freeze voters, volunteers, and contributors into an election year freeze force.

Saturday's canvass is one of ten such canvasses planned in New Jersey and one of hundreds this weekend. In Princeton, canvassers will meet at 10:30 at Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane and Houghton Street, before going door-to-door, from noon to 4. Those interested should contact Carol Segur at 924-9890 or David Madole at 921-0425.

The workshop is for children age 7 and up, and the fee is $3.

Mr. Lewis is director of the Touchstone Center in New York City. He lectures and conducts workshops widely and has taught at the Walden School and the New School of Social Research. He is a graduate of Bard College who did graduate work at the Mannes College of Music. On a trip made possible through UNESCO he visited 18 countries and collected 3,000 poems from children. Miracles is a selection of the best.

WORKSHOP, DANCE
By Country Dancers. The Princeton Country Dancers will sponsor an afternoon workshop in Scandinavian couple dances and an evening of New England contra dances on Saturday. Both events will be led by instructor-caller Dave Kaynor of Washington, D.C.

The afternoon workshop will take place at the Burnt Hill Road School, corner of Burnt Hill and Orchard Roads, Montgomery Township. It will begin at 3:30 and will cost $3 per person.

A pot luck supper at 6:30 and contra dance at 8 will take place at the Harlingen Reformed Church on Route 206. Participants are asked to bring prepared dishes that do not need to be heated. The cost of the evening dance will be $4 per person, or $5 per person for both events.

Everyone is welcome to either event, with or without a partner, and experience is not necessary. Live music will be provided by Becky Ashenden.

Princeton Resident, World's Leading Authority on Fly-Fishing, Is Also an Architect and Land Use Planner for Giant Projects

Lucky the man whose lifelong interests and livelihood are happily merged. Lucky the audience and the interviewer who has the opportunity to hear a master talk on a topic on which the world acknowledges his authority.

The Princeton community will have an opportunity to hear Ernest Schiebert speak on "Salmon Rivers of Norway" on Monday at 7:30 at the YMCA as part of its lecture series. He will also show slides, but this will be no ordinary travelogue.

For Mr. Schiebert is regarded as the world's leading authority on fly-fishing—one whose published writings on the subject combine encyclopedic scientific knowledge and evocative nature writing. His first book, Matching the Hatch, a guide to the imitation of insects found on eastern and western trout waters, was published while he was still in college.

His monumental two-volume treatise, Trout, published four books later in 1978, is a compendium of six centuries of the history, literature, theory and technique of trout fishing. But Mr. Schiebert is not just a trout fisherman who writes professionally and well on his favorite pastime. He is also an architect and land use planner of large scale projects on several continents.

An Excuse for Travel. Both callings take him on travels around the world, and "Salmon Rivers of Norway" is a dart-board choice among his many fishing experiences with famous people on legendary trout waters. And although trout are wary and difficult to catch—comparable to playing chess, in his view—Mr. Schiebert regards salmon as the "primordial fish" and salmon fishing "the apogee of angling."

For the interviewer who had heard of this Princeton resident's reputation among knowledgeable trout fishermen and had noticed the glowing reviews of his books in the New York Times, an introduction to the many parts of Ernest Schiebert begins with a visit to his house on Stuart Road. It is a stunning contemporary home, which he designed while still a graduate

ALTHOUGH HE KEPT THIS ONE, a Rainbow caught on a dry fly on the Rio Mallo in Argentina, Ernest Schiebert has this to say about killing fish: "The favorite pastime. He is also an architect and land use planner of large scale projects on several continents."

He credits Donald D. Egbert of the Art Department with teaching him how to research and organize complex material in depth—a knack that has proved invaluable in all his subsequent work, including writing on trout. In architecture he studied under Jean Labatut, Enrico Peristuti and Louis Kahn at a time when there was an interest in vernacular architecture and a fascination with the psychology of the variables of space and levels of light.

Double Doctorate. With the completion of that immense project and the arrival of the first cadets, Mr. Schiebert decided to go on to graduate school. He enrolled for an M.A. at Princeton's School of Architecture and subsequently earned a double Ph.D. in art history and in architecture.

After graduation Mr. Schiebert worked for a large New York architectural firm, Tippetts, Abbot, McCarthy and Stratton, involved in huge projects all over the world. He took part in designing and building airports in Puerto Rico, in Caracas, Venezuela, and Santiago, Chile, for instance, and did the master plan and site plan studies for the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

Big Dams, New Towns. Other projects were the Tarbela Dam in Pakistan, larger, he says, than the Aswan Dam in Egypt. Still another involved the construction of two entire new towns and 350 miles of connecting railway from Mt. Newman to Port Headland in Australia, sites of an iron ore lode and an ore-handling port.

"When you work at that level, you are like a player in an immense orchestra—and you end up a little anonymous," he says. He left the firm and founded his own company, Ecosystemics, a loosely organized group of scholars and planners who take on equally large projects in master planning and land use but usually only one a year.

Having served on a U.S. National Park Service advisory group which had international observers, he was invited to do a bio-physical inventory and master plan for a new national park in Chile that is twice the size of Yellowstone and has a mountain range as high as the Tetons. There was a similar project in Argentina, which he describes as having the most advanced national park system of all Third World countries.

Private land owners in Montana and New Mexico seek him out to make bio-physical inventories of their large land holdings and advise them on the best use of the property and whether and how a portion might be developed.

Scriptwriter Too. Dazed, the interviewer wants to get back to trout. Mr. Schiebert smiles. A somewhat stocky man of medium height and large brown eyes, he is at once genial and very serious. He has just returned from six weeks in New Zealand, where he combined fishing with making a TV film on a wild river system that is threatened by hydroelectric power dams.

He wrote the script for that film, as he writes the scripts for all TV films in which he appears fishing one river or another.

He explains that his father, a history professor, liked to fish and that he began the pastime as early as age three or four. By seven he had his own tackle, and soon he was learning fly-dressing from a master fly-typist and casting from an expert tournament casters. Chapters in his two books of essays, Remembrances of Rivers Past (1972) and Death of a Riverkeeper (1980) describe idyllic summers during the Depression spent fishing trout streams of Michigan and Illinois. "Trout became the consuming passion of my boyhood," he writes. "Winters were occupied tinkering with tackle and learning to dress flies."

Hatching Calendar. It was William Blades, the master fly-dresser, who urged his protégé to write a guide to trout stream insects and the artificial flies that imitate them. Blades pointed out that the key to fishing difficult waters lies in knowing what is hatching when and how to devise the most effective artificials.

Matching the Hatch evolved during teenage years of fishing further afield, in Colorado and upstate New York as well as the mid-West, all the while collecting jars of insects and keeping diaries of hatches. The first manuscript was completed before he was 20, the book was under contract when he was 22 and published when he was 24.

Ours is the grandest sport. It is an intriguing battle of wits between the angler and the trout; and in addition to appreciating the tradition and the grace of the game, we play it in the magnificent out-of-doors.

Ernest Schiebert in Matching the Hatch (1955)

The only book of its type to cover rivers east of the Rocky Mountains, it has been continuously in print since 1955 from a 13th printing. A 30th anniversary edition is tentatively scheduled for 1985. Mr. Schiebert says only the original cover will remain, as the text will be totally revised to reflect new knowledge of entomology.

Fame Before 30. In 1959 Life magazine published a photographic essay on Ernest Schiebert, having discovered he was an expert not yet 30 in a field dominated by older men. The exposure gave a boost to sales of Matching the Hatch and prominence to its author. Sports Illustrated paid for a 10-week trip to Patagonia, Argentina, his choice of location—and there were other articles in Esquire and sports journals that helped break up what he jokingly calls the "self-inflicted manic-depression" of writing a Ph.D. thesis.

Delving into the adjoining library-study where stacks of books, magazines, fishing tackle, color slides, and artist's paraphernalia compete for space, Mr. Schiebert returns with the body of his published work. In 1970, Winchester Press published a boxed, limited edition of 750 sets Minister John Malcolm Frazier in 1982 and a replica of the $2,000 silver-handled, specially inscribed and encased split-cane rod he had made at the request of the White House as the Gift of State to the Prime Minister.

Mr. Schiebert's companions on fishing expeditions have included English, Scottish and Norwegian nobility, as well as American notables such as Bing Crosby, Jack Lemmon and actor Richard Crenna. He says there are only two regions of the world that he would like to fish and has not yet. One is the Vale of Kashmir in the north of India, another is the Zululand in the Drakensberg Mountains in South Africa.

At the end of the interview, the Schiebert living room is cluttered with architectural drawings, Schiebert books, Schiebert original sketches of horses and birds as well as fish, the manuscript of the Alaska book, Ecosystemics reports, TV scripts, magazine profiles and taped interviews. Mr. Schiebert surveys it all calmly. "It's all of one piece, you know, all of one piece."

Princeton's Walt Servis, Owner of The Prep Shop, To Close Store after 32 1/2 Years in Business

He was born on Chestnut Street, lived for 25 years on Walnut Lane (just down the block, given the Chestnut-Walnut continuity), graduated from Princeton High, opened his Prep Shop 32 1/2 years ago.

Walt Servis is, you might say, "Princeton." He will close the Prep Shop and retire on May 1.

A curly red-head, he has a touch of that tough swagger that so often protects a very soft interior. Ranged on a beam in his store is a row of pictures of all the men and women who have ever worked in The Prep Shop. He tells a visitor proudly that the darkly carved table he bought from Lester Slatoff has been in the shop 32 1/2 years. So have the chairs. The clock belonged to the grandfather of his wife, Betty. Walt is now serving sons of the sons he served over a generation ago.

THE PREP SHOP LOOK: Navy blazers — a calm presence in a fast-changing world. Walt Servis, who has sold these blazers to two generations of boys and youths — except for those bad years in the '60's — is closing his Palmer Square shop and retiring.

"I've always loved clothes." Loved clothes and color and form. He could tell an unsure mother or a coltish teen what tie would go with what shirt, with what belt, with what jacket, with what socks.

He paints, and his oils so fill the Servis' Clearbrook home that the landscapes and still-lives have to rotate on the walls.

"Self-taught," is his typically laconic comment. "Except for Edith Margerum in the Princeton High art class."

Shop in the west wing, providing for Prep Shop sisters. She was there about five years, but a disastrous robbery in which she lost her entire stock of new spring garments was just too discouraging and she quietly closed the door.

Eight years ago, Walt moved to his present spot at 33 Palmer Square. He loves it. Best location ever. Collins wanted him to stay but he decided against it. "Collins was great — couldn't have been nicer."

So now there will be more time to paint. Visitors may have noticed the duck decoys at the rear desk. In quiet times, Walt paints his decoys, enjoying this new hobby which is still another reflection of his love for color and line.

More time, too, for trips to Arizona to visit grandson David, nine, and granddaughter Brandy, age five. They are the children of Mike, who worked with his father in the shop, both at the Playhouse location and here on Palmer Square.

Mike was 24 when he was killed in an automobile accident, six years ago this January.

Mike's sister Betsy is close by, in Maple Shade with her husband, Ruth Servis, Walt's mother, is now 85, living in Princeton Junction close to Walt's sister, Ethel Servis McNinch. Walt's wife, who was Betty Clayton, is of course, just as Princeton as he, Princeton High diploma and all.

And then there are all the other Servises, like cousins Norman and Jack...

Town changed, in 33½ years? Walt shrugs. "It's grown, but it's stayed pretty much the same and I like it and sure, I'll be coming back — Clearbrook isn't that far."

He looks out the window of The Prep Shop at Palmer Square and the post office. He likes the location.

"Same view I've seen for 30 years."

BULLETIN NOTES

A drama troupe consisting of 13 students from CBN University in Virginia Beach, Va. will perform at Nassau Christian Center on Friday at 8:30 p.m.

The troupe's repertoire includes four mini-dramas: "Song of Zion," a rendition of the people of Israel's deliverance from Egyptian bondage; "Testify," an audience participation production which portrays the trial of Jesus Christ; "The Prodigal," a contemporary version of the Biblical account of the prodigal son; and "The Search," a drama which focuses on the importance of love and forgiveness, featuring the character Mary Magdalene.

The third in a series of weekly concerts devoted to the music of Bach will be given in Trinity Church on Wednesday, March 28 at 8 p.m.

The Princeton Singers, conducted by John Bertalot, will sing two of Bach's motets. Mr. Bertalot will also play Bach's Passacaglia and Fugue in C Minor on the organ.

The Hopewell Presbyterian Church, corner of Broad and Louellen Streets, Hopewell, will hold its annual Spring Rummage Sale on Thursday, March 29, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday, March 30 from 10 a.m. to noon.

Depending on the weather, large items will be sold outside beginning at 9 a.m. on Thursday. On Friday there will be a "Dollar Grab Bag" call you can fill in a grocery bag.

A portion of the proceeds will be used for the Rev. John H. Ginter Memorial Scholarship Fund and other mission projects.

BUSINESS

INVESTMENT SEMINARS
In West Windsor, "Investment Strategies for Maximum Returns" is the topic of a free two-evening seminar to be held March 22 and March 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the West Windsor Branch of the Mercer County Library located at 332 Clarksville Road, Princeton Junction.

Jim McLaughlin and Charles Blatz of Prudential Bache Securities will lead the seminar. The March 22 session will discuss the economy and the effects of the budget deficits on the stock market outlook for 1984. In addition, the benefits of investing for tax free income will be presented, such as how safe are tax free investments, and some defensive strategies for investing in bonds.

RECOMES A MEMBER
Of Yellow Pages Group, Princeton Community Phone Book has become a publisher member of the National Yellow Pages Service Association. Joseph M. Boyd is publisher of The Princeton Community Phone Book.

Founded in 1975, NYPSA is an international advertising trade association made up of 174 member companies which publish over 6,000 Yellow Pages Directories in the United States, Canada, the Bahamas, Cayman Islands, Brazil, Puerto Rico and West Germany. Its purpose is to enhance the status of National Yellow Pages as a viable major advertising medium and to promote National Yellow Pages advertising as an integral part of the national advertisers' media mix.

"BIG BAND SOUND"
At Good Time Charley's, Every Wednesday evening at

Good Time Charley's in Kingston, music reminiscent of the big band era is highlighted, featuring the Lenn Miller "Swing" Dance Band.

Mr. Miller began his career with the Jimmy Dorsey orchestra, and arranged for Dorsey and other big bands. About five years ago, he set out to establish his own "affordable" dance band, when he recognized the cost of the old 16- to 20-piece dance band was prohibitive.

After experimenting with voicing and instrumentation, Mr. Miller finally succeeded in developing his own big band sound with only six musicians. Mr. Miller has played his "Swing" dance music at many hotels and country clubs on the east coast. While he describes his sound as reminiscent of the big band era, the young musicians in his band, he claims, impart a contemporary flavor to his music which attracts all ages for dancing and listening.

STOCK DIVIDEND SET
By Software Company, Applied Data Research, Inc., a software products and services company, declared a 5 percent stock dividend for all shareholders of record on March 29, payable on April 18. The company recently announced record 1983 results. Operating revenues were $89,086,000, an increase of 30 percent over revenues of $68,396,000 in 1982. Operating income was $12,031,000 compared to $8,386,000, a 43 percent increase.

Net earnings in 1983 totaled $6,984,000, a 47 percent increase over the $4,737,000 for 1982. Finally, net earnings per share amounted to a record $1.45 compared to $1.16 in 1982.

EXHIBITORS INVITED
For Home Show Display, The Princeton Chamber of Commerce will hold a Home Show on Saturday, June 2, at the Princeton Hyatt Regency. The show will feature area exhibitors in many different fields, such as realtors, florists, banks, and home electronics specialists. Exhibit space may be obtained by calling the Chamber at 921-7676. Space is limited.

BUSSARD TO SPEAK
On Countertrade, Barter, Willis A. Bussard, 43 Sayre Drive, will discuss countertrade and bartering in the second Mercer County Community College International "Business over Breakfast" series. The workshop will be held this Friday in the College Conference Center on the West Windsor campus, starting with breakfast at 8.

Shu-Cheng Fang

An international trade executive, Mr. Bussard has negotiated contracts in South and Central America, Europe, Africa and the Far East. He will discuss the relevance, advantages and disadvantages associated with barter and countertrade.

The workshop fee is $15 if registration is made before Friday and $20 the day of the workshop.

THE DIFFERENCE?
Men and Women at Work, A panel discussion on "Men and Women at Work: What Are the Differences?" will be held next Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Student Center of Rider College, Lawrenceville Road.

Discussion will include problems unique to female employees, student preparation for work situations, sex stereotypes and mutual support versus backstabbing. The panel is free and open to the public.

PERSONNEL NOTES
Niels H. Nielsen, president of Princeton Management Consultants Inc., will chair a session on controlling health care costs at a meeting of The Conference Board March 28 at the Waldorf Astoria in New York City.

The Conference Board is a global network which provides business leaders with information to make sound decisions. More than 3,600 organizations in more than 50 nations participate in the work of the Conference Board.

For further information about the seminar or Mr. Nielsen's techniques for controlling health insurance costs call him at 924-2411.

Shu-Cheng Fang of Lawrenceville and Michael Murr of Pennington have received the Technical Achievement Award presented annually by AT&T's

Michael Murr

Engineering Research Center on Carter Road.

Mr. Fang and Mr. Murr won the award for their development of a computer-aided manufacturing system which is used in selecting optical fibers for production of lightguide cable. The system, known as LITES, is based on a state-of-the-art technique in mathematical optimization to reduce manufacturing costs. It has been in use in AT&T's Atlanta, Ga., Works for almost a year and has led to significant savings.

Mr. Fang and Mr. Murr are members of the Research Center's Applied Mathematics and Statistics Group.

Donald Ream of Ewing Township has been named director of public relations for the Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey Foundation. The foundation operates housing and health care facilities for the elderly at seven sites throughout New Jersey.

OBITUARIES

Frederic A. Milholland died on March 10 in Torrance, Calif. A resident of Princeton for more than 50 years, Mr. Milholland had recently moved to California with his wife, the late Margaret Pierce Milholland.

Mr. Milholland was born on August 24, 1897 in Paterson. His family moved to a farm outside of Princeton in 1910, and he attended the Princeton Prep School until 1917 when it burned down and he joined the army.

In 1932, he moved back to Princeton with his wife and began doing interior decorating. In World War II, he joined the Navy and served as a lieutenant commander with the diplomatic corps in Ottawa, Canada.

After the war, he and his partner, Peter Olsen, started the decorating firm of Milholland and Olsen at 8 Stockton Street. He remained active in the firm for 30 years, retiring in 1978.

Mr. Milholland leaves a daughter, Jean Shriver in Palos Verdes, Calif., and a son, E.L. Pierce Milholland in Seattle, Wash., and five grandchildren.

The family suggests that anyone who wants to make a contribution in his name may send it to Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street. A memorial service will be held at Trinity Church on Monday, March 27, at 3 p.m.

Lowell F. Curran, 87, of Murray Place, died March 16 at Princeton Nursing Home.

Born in Chicago, Mr. Curran had lived in the Princeton area since 1965. Before retiring, he was a real estate broker in Atlantic City and later a mortgage banker and broker for 20 years in New York City. He was a Navy veteran of World War I and a member of the Knights of Columbus Council in Princeton.

Surviving are two sons, Lowell F. Curran Jr. of Princeton and Thomas A. Curran of Drexel Hill, Pa.; seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Church. Burial was in Old Cathedral Cemetery, Philadelphia. Memorial contributions may be made to the Organ Fund of St. Paul's Church, 214 Nassau Street, 08542.

Ann E. O'Connell, 70, of Pennington, died March 16 at home.

Miss O'Connell was born in Pennington and was a lifelong resident. She was a member of St. James Roman Catholic Church and before her retirement was associated with Hibbert Printing Company in Trenton.

She is survived by her sister, Sister Mary Vincent of the Dominican Nuns of the Perpetual Rosary in Lancaster, Pa.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. James Roman Catholic Church. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Trenton.

Bertha W. Mitchell, former Princeton resident, died March 17 in the Meadow Lakes Infirmary, Meadow Lakes Village, Hightstown. She was 101.

Mrs. Mitchell was born in Chambersburg, Pa., and had lived on Mountain Avenue for a time. She had been a resident of Meadow Lakes Village for the past seven years. She was the wife of the late Arthur H. Mitchell, a prominent attorney in Newark.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Frederick S. Osborne of Philadelphia, Pa., Mrs. Harold A. Beatty of Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Mitchell Diehlmann of Columbia, Md.; six grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. She was also the mother of the late Jane Mitchell.

Burial was in Princeton Cemetery. A memorial service will be held at Trinity Church at a date to be announced. Memorial contributions may be made to the Historical Society of Princeton or to Wilson College in Chambersburg, Pa.

Volanda Scheck, 76, of Linden Lane, died March 18 at Brunswick Park Nursing Home, New Brunswick.

Miss Scheck was born in Trenton and had lived in Princeton for 30 years. She is survived by a sister, Alice Petrone, with whom she resided; a niece, Virginia Goeke of Kingston; a nephew, Victor Petrone of Princeton; and a cousin, Elsie Callahan of Mercerville.

The funeral and burial in Princeton Cemetery will be private. Friends may call at the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue, this Wednesday from 7-9 p.m.

Dessie Ruth Apperson, 88, of Robin Drive, Skillman, died March 18 in the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center. Born in Luverne, Ga., she lived in Atlanta for 35 years and had also lived in Miami and Tampa, Fla., before moving to Skillman eight years ago.

Widow of the late Lawrence L. Apperson Sr. and mother of the late Howard L. Apperson, she is survived by a son, Lawrence L. Apperson Jr. of Skillman, with whom she resided; two daughters, Caroline A. Kule of Brandon, Fla., and Ruth A. Sizer of Islamorada, Fla.; 10 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The service and burial will be in Atlanta. Memorial contributions may be made to the Medical Center at Princeton Foundation, Scholarship for Nurses, care of Michael Loyak, 253 Witherspoon Street 08542.

Peter J. Obinger, 39, of Hopewell, died March 18 at Princeton Medical Center. Formerly of Lincoln, Maine, Mr. Obinger was postmaster of Titusville for two years and had been in the postal service for 18 years. He was also associated with the Weichert Realty Company of Princeton.

He was a member of the Union Fire Company of Titusville; the National Association of Postmasters of the United States; the Postmasters Association No. 085; and the Washington Crossing Historical Society.

Surviving are his wife, Rose Mary Bucci Obinger; a daughter, Kathleen M., and son Robert W., both at home; his parents, Robert and Claire Obinger of Ewing; two sisters, Roberta Neal of Gibbstown, Fla., and Judith Fair of Ewing; and a brother, Richard Obinger of Hopewell.

The service will be Thursday at 8:30 from the Cromwell Memorial Home, 71 East Prospect Street, Hopewell. Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 9:30 in St. Alphonse Roman Catholic Church, Hopewell. Burial will follow in Highland Cemetery.

Friends may call this Wednesday from 7-9 at the funeral home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Union Fire Company, Titusville 08560.

Allice M. Cox, 77, of Cranbury, formerly of Princeton, died March 18 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Trenton, Mrs. Cox had lived in the Princeton area for 40 years. She retired in 1951 from Lenox Inc., where she had been employed as a decorator for 25 years.

She is survived by her husband, Edwin Cox, and several nieces and nephews.

Mass of Christian Burial was scheduled to be celebrated this Wednesday at 10 at St. Paul's Church. Entombment will be in St. Mary's Mausoleum, Trenton. Arrangements are under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the East Windsor Rescue Squad No. 1, 51 One Mile Road Extension, East Windsor.

ONE OF PRINCETON'S FINEST

A jewel of Princeton is to be found in this 1920's stone manor house set on two acres in the heart of the finest residential area. The property includes a very private 60-foot pool with bathhouses, four-car stone garage with apartment over, two-story greenhouse, and another stone outbuilding. Mature landscaping with a flagstone terrace enhances the setting. The six-bedroom, five and one-half bath house offers spacious rooms with high ceilings, exquisite mantelpieces and woodwork, tile floors, and a solarium — all featuring a number of quality details. Call for details.

WESTERN SECTION — PRINCETON TOWNSHIP

On an acre lot just off The Great Road, we are planning a spec house with one of Princeton's most reputable builders of traditionally designed houses. We have a plan with four bedrooms, a spacious family room, deck, etc., but you may want to add your own custom features or perhaps your own complete design. Let us arrange a conference with the builder and go from there.

RIDGEVIEW AREA

New Thompson Colonial now being built on a quiet two plus acre wooded lot on Baldwin Lane. Gracious entry hall, living room 16 x 21 with bay window, separate dining room, both study and family room with fireplace, country kitchen, lavatory and laundry room on first floor. Upstairs four unusually spacious bedrooms and three baths. Two-car garage with adjoining drive-through por-tico. Occupancy late summer.

$425,000

"House of the Week"

COLFAX

AT BEDENS BROOK

YOU CAN MOVE INTO THIS MAGNIFICENT COLFAX HOUSE IN SEPTEMBER

World-renowned architect Robert A.M. Stern designed this splendid classic to "sit just right" on one of the loveliest lots at COLFAX. In fact, the lot is the very first overlooking the five acre park in the center of COLFAX with all its privacy and serenity.

This very minute it is under construction by the prestigious firm of L.R. Hunt & Associates builder of many outstanding homes in the Princeton area. And the house should be ready for occupancy in early fall.

Mr. Stern's particular blend of traditional design with classic details and materials contains a beautifully proportioned 38' living room with a dramatic brick faced fireplace, enormous family/living areas with over-sized foyers and hallways for gracious living. Four bedrooms and three full baths plus an expanded powder room are included. A library and second fireplace are here, too. A 3-car garage, of course.

It is not too late to make minor modifications and selections to suit your own tastes and lifestyle. But hurry.

Call your nearest Henderson office for the exclusive details of this Robert A.M. Stern classic. Plans are on exhibit right now. Or bring your own plans for other available lots at COLFAX. And please, do it soon. There are only 13 lots remaining.

At COLFAX you'll find a lovely very private cul-de-sac lined with Norway Maples and Belgium Block curbs winding its way upwards for perhaps the most spectacular views. Each building lot has been carefully delineated with rows of flowering dogwoods for beauty and privacy. Absolutely perfect to create your own private world.

The name is COLFAX. And COLFAX may well be the most beautiful place to live in the Princeton area. Yet COLFAX is only minutes from downtown Princeton. COLFAX is really part of the Princeton lifestyle.

Over 18 acres of rolling hillside have been dedicated as "Green Acres" to remain untouched in perpetuity for the exclusive use of the COLFAX community. If you're considering Princeton as a place to live and prosper, you really must pay a visit to COLFAX!

Five Candidates Running for Three Positions In Princeton's Annual School Board Elections

Three new school board members — two from the Township and one from the Borough — will be chosen by Princeton voters in the annual school election Tuesday, April 3.

Voters will also pass on the school budget.

This week and next, Town Topics will present interviews with the five candidates, outlining what they perceive to be the key elements in the campaign. So far, it has been a singularly quiet campaign in spite of the contests in each municipality.

Borough candidates are Corinne Kyle, 14 Hamilton Avenue, and Tatiana Ermolaev, 30 N. Stanworth Drive. There is one Borough seat to be filled on the board this year and voters will choose one of the two candidates.

Township candidates are incumbent Harry Levine, 147 Crestview Drive, Sharon Muzyk, 243 State Road and incumbent Hugh Brandt, 61 Bertrand Drive. There are two Township vacancies this year and voters will cast ballots for two of the three candidates named above.

Mrs. Ermolaev, who is running as a candidate of CASE —

students would be required to take.

It would consist of history — including ancient history — geography, philosophy, grammar, languages, mathematics and all sciences. It is the CASE core curriculum, although CASE would require Greek and Mrs. Ermolaev says that in her view, CASE is "sometimes too rigorous," and she is inclined to think Greek would not be necessary.

Study the Classics. She also supports CASE's belief that students should study Shakespeare, Milton, Cervantes, Dante, Schiller and the Bible, and classical music, including "composition of well-tempered polyphony."

"I think the non-college-bound students need this classical core as much as those bound for college," she says. "And I believe foreign languages should be taught from the early grades."

Although she does not like electives — "kids tend to take the easiest" — she would not eliminate them entirely, perhaps allowing students to choose which languages or which sciences they would study.

"This is not 'Back to Basics,'" she emphasizes, "because that is not enough. Princeton's Long Range plan says Back to Basics isn't enough, and I agree."

A native of Latvia, Mrs. Ermolaev came to this country in 1950 and to Princeton in 1974. From 1974 until last year, she taught Russian at Princeton University.

More Grammar. "In teaching university-level students," she continues, "I have found that kids really don't know much — they don't even know English grammar and we have to teach them that, before we can teach them Russian."

She wishes that teacher training were less "dull," and gave teachers solid training in languages. "If they had training in languages and philosophy at the university level, they could carry that over into the classroom."

The candidate, who pronounces her name Erma-LAH-ev, has a seven-year-old daughter in Community Park and a three-year-old daughter at home.

Corinne Kyle, who was chair of the Princeton School Closing Advisory Committee, ran for the school board unsuccessfully last year. She is manager of Social Science Research for the Gallup Organization and has been for more than 20 years a consultant to public agencies on management planning.

Mrs. Kyle is a graduate of Bennington College with a masters from Harvard in public administration. A resident of Princeton for three and one-half years, she has a daughter who is a junior at Princeton High School and a son who is out of college.

"We have a very strong school system — staff, administration and board are continually reviewing — and it's an exciting, positive group I'd like to join," Mrs. Kyle said.

Several aspects of the Long Range plan, she points out, "merely comment on what we're doing now," including programs to meet the needs of different students, a strong, in-service teacher training program, attention to new technology.

Encourage Self Expression. Among the most positive, she believes, is the policy of making sure that teachers encourage students to express their own ideas. Students, she adds, should feel comfortable about putting forth ideas which may be different from what the teacher said.

Three curriculum areas need attention, in her view: science in the elementary schools; teaching foreign languages at an early age, perhaps at two levels: academic and conversational, to accommodate students with different levels of ability and the kind of physical education program, K-12, that allows students to "let off steam." Included would be education making students responsible, life-long, for their own health.

Better communication between board members and the public is also a concern. "I'd like to see a good bit more outreach, letting the public know what the board is talking about, not just 'what we decided last night.'" She suggests greater use of cable to this end.

Second Try for Ms. Muzyk. Sharon Muzyk, running again this year after her try last year, is recuperating from successful surgery for removal of her gall bladder and must confine her campaigning to telephone calls and letters written for her by friends.

President of the Community Park PTO, she is in her tenth year as director of the High School Equivalency Program and Adult Basic Education at Mercer County Community

News of The THEATRES

JACKSON PLAY NEXT
"At This Evening's Performance," McCarter's Artistic Director Nagle Jackson has re-written his play, "At This Evening's Performance," for the McCarter Theatre mainstage and it will open there March 30.

The comedy-melodrama — with serious undertones about artistic freedom and life in a totalitarian East European country — played last year at 185 Nassau Street in a McCarter Stage Two production. The set has been re-worked for the mainstage as well, because the Stage Two performing area was very small (McCarter likes to say "intimate.")

After the play closes April 15, it will move to the Virginia Museum Theatre in Richmond where it will play for one month.

Mr. Jackson has said that the idea for the play came to him in 1977 shortly after he'd done his adaptation of "A Christmas Carol."

"What if," he said, "what if an actor felt that his performance quite literally were a question of life or death, and suppose the question 'Why must the show go on?' were truly to be asked."

"A few years later, I found myself touring Eastern Europe and visiting several theatre companies there. Returning from the Balkans, I completely rewrote the text — it had already had a first performance in San Francisco — making it a play about man's artistic freedom and what it's like to have that at stake."

T.S. ELIOT
"Cocktail Party." After a successful Broadway run in 1950, T.S. Eliot's verse play, "The Cocktail Party," was revived in New York in 1968 and will now be given a Theatre Intime production on the stage of Murray Theatre, Princeton University campus. Opening night is this Thursday at 8. It will play again this Friday and Saturday and March 29-April 1.

T.S. Eliot worked on the final draft of "The Cocktail Party" during his stay in Princeton at the Institute for Advanced Study. His verse combines the flow of everyday speech and rich poetic imagery into a natural means of expression for each character.

At the Chamberlaynes' cocktail party, the hostess is unaccountably absent, which

To Direct Development
Nancy Anne Macy, associate director of development at the Alliance Theatre Company in Atlanta, has been appointed Director of Development at McCarter Theatre. She will assume her new duties April 2.

A graduate of Denison University, she has a paralegal degree from Roosevelt University in Chicago and has completed 24 credit hours in arts administration at the graduate school of Indiana University.

She taught speech and drama in Gary, Indiana, and was an Equity actor from 1973 to 1980. She began with Alliance as an administrative intern and later became assistant director of development before promotion to her present post.

At Alliance, she said this week, "we had an individual campaign goal of $230,000. We are already up to $300,000 and going strong. I hope to bring similar success to McCarter."

means her husband must entertain a roomful of guests who make him most uncomfortable — especially an "Unidentified Guest" — who turns out to know more about the Chamberlaynes than one might guess.

With the help of an unusual psychiatrist and his helpers, characters in the play attempt to rearrange their lives and in so doing, propel Eliot's comedy into new examinations of the human condition.

Meg Patterson, an alumna of Princeton, is directing. In the cast are actors, including Hal McCarr and Eleanor Moseley, who have acted in other Intime productions.

Reservations may be made by calling 452-8181 or 452-4950 between 1:30 and 5:30 Tuesdays through Fridays.

News of the Theatres

"TEX"
On Kresge Screen. Movies from McCarter will move on, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, with "Tex," the story of two motherless brothers abandoning their childhood to face the hardships of a real world. It will be shown in Kresge auditorium, Washington Road, at 7:30 and 9:30 each night.

Matt Dillon plays 15-year-old Tex, rebel against every aspect of authority, who in the course of the film, has his first experiences with drugs, sex, alcohol, class differences and even death.

Jim Metzler plays his serious older brother Mason, who must be a father to his younger brother and keep his basketball scholarship at a major university at the same time. The film has been compared to other "growing up"

A BOY IN TROUBLE: Alan, played by Joseph O'Laughlin, is a teen-ager obsessed by his imaginary god, Equus in Peter Shaffer's drama of that name. In this rehearsal scene, he is with his mother, played by June Connerton, and his father, portrayed by Milton Koosman. "Equus" will be given at Mill Hill Playhouse, Trenton, by Princeton Community Players, opening this Thursday at 8 and playing week-ends through April 1.

movies like "The Last Picture Show" and "The Yearling."

FROM JAPAN
Dance, Discussion, Eiko and Koma, whose work reflects the traditions of old Japan and contemporary American avant-garde, will give a free program of dance this Wednesday, followed by discussion with the audience. The program, which will be given at 8 in the 185 Nassau Studios of Princeton University's Program in Theatre and Dance, is the third in a series designed to bring unusual and lesser-known artists to the campus for performance and discussion.

Frequently using images from nature — a fragile moth or an aging seal — they transcend the limits of the image, sometimes moving very slowly until they break through the everyday concepts of time and space.

Dance Magazine said of them, "You feel you are seeing into their bodies. The material is primal, and its treatment theatrically sophisticated ... they are simply the most moving and original dance or theatre in town."

MUSIC

FINALS ON FRIDAY
For Symphony Auditions. The four finalists of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra 1984 Young Artists Auditions will appear with the Orchestra under Associate Conductor George Manahan on Friday evening at 8 at the Nicholas Music Center of the Mason Gross School of the Arts at Rutgers University, New Brunswick.

The young musicians will compete for cash awards and an opportunity to appear as soloist on the NJSO's 1984-85 subscription concerts. The Young Artists Auditions, sponsored by the NJSO and the state-wide NJSO League, are supported with a generous grant from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation.

This year's finalists are: Tomomi Kumagai, pianist, 16, from Oakland; Aurelia Mika Chang, pianist, 15, from Englewood; Akemi Kawano, pianist, age 15, from Tenafly; and Joshua Gordon, cellist, 19, from Whippany. The top award winner will receive the $1000 Honey H. Frank Award as well as a solo engagement with the Orchestra during its upcoming season. Hei-Ok Kim of Lawrenceville, 1983

For more information about the recital or other musical events at Westminster, call 921-3202.

CHAMBER MUSIC SET
For Sunday Concert. An evening of chamber music will be presented this Sunday at 8 at All Saints' Church by the Trinity-All Saints' Concerts Series. The concert will begin with sacred part songs by Haydn and Schubert by a vocal quartet composed of Sharon Alexander, soprano; Lois Laverly, alto; Eric Swartzentruber, tenor; John Woodard, bass; and Harriet Chase, piano. The second part of the program will be an instrumental trio performing pieces by Max Bruch and Mozart.

The trio will include George Jones, clarinet, and Daniel Schuman, viola, accompanied by June Tipton at the piano. The newly formed Princeton Singers under the direction of John Bertalot will conclude with Bach's Motet, "Jesu, meine Freude." Funding for this program has been made possible by a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission. A donation of $4 will be requested.

For further information call 924-2277.

CONCERT FRIDAY
By Men's Glee Club. The Caltech Men's Glee Club, conducted by Dr. Donald Caldwell, will present a concert of male chorus music at the Princeton University Chapel on Friday evening at 8 p.m. Admission is free and the public is invited.

The California Institute of Technology, located in Pasadena, Calif., is a center of instruction and research, primarily in the fields of science and engineering. Its men's glee club has been heard throughout the continental United States, as well as in Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, Canada, and most recently in Hawaii.

MAGNOLIA, THE OSTRICH and puppeteer Mary Ritts will take part in the annual children's concert by the Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra on Sunday, March 25, at 2 in Kirby Arts Center of the Lawrenceville School. The MCSO is a youth group composed of area instrumentalists under the direction of Dr. Matteo Giammarino.

Music in Princeton

the program will be drawn consists of a group of primarily sacred pieces by Roger Quilter, Jean Sibelius, Randall Thompson and others, three choruses from operas by Vaughan Williams, Wagner and Gounod, the suite entitled "English Girls" by Kirke Mechem, a group of four compositions for male chorus by Charles Ives, and folksong arrangements by Dawson, McInnes and Shimizu.

TICKETS AVAILABLE

For Bach Festival. The Concerto Soloists of Philadelphia will be a featured part of the Bach Festival to be presented by the Nassau Presbyterian Church on Saturday, March 31, and Sunday, April 1.

On Saturday at 8 p.m. the group of young professional musicians, known for their performance of Baroque music, will join the church's Adult Choir to present Cantata No. 10 for choir and orchestra, "Meine Seele erhebt den Herren;" "Magnificat" for choir, orchestra and four soloists; and Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 for orchestra. The soloists are Anne Ackley, Lindsey Christiansen, Frederick Urrey and Daniel Pratt.

There is a $10 contribution per person for this concert, and tickets are on sale at the Nassau Church office from 9 to 5 on weekdays, and at the door on the evening of the concert.

On Sunday at the 10 a.m. worship service the Concerto Soloists of Philadelphia will take part in a performance with the Adult Choir and the Children's Bach Choir of Cantata No. 78, "Jesu, der Du Meine Seele." The order of worship will follow that used in Bach's St. Thomas Church in Leipzig in the early 18th century. Both programs are directed by Dr. Kenneth B. Kelley, Director of Music at the Nassau Church.

The weekend of Bach music is offered in anticipation of Johann Sebastian Bach's 300th birthday, to be celebrated in 1985. The weekend will be launched by a chamber music concert for special supporters of the Festival at the Great Hall of the J.S. Morgan mansion at Constitution Hill. This concert will be on Friday, March 30 at 7:30 p.m. and will be in the style of the concerts performed in the great homes of Leipzig in Bach's time.

Performing will be Emily Agnew, oboist, a string quartet and the four vocalists of Saturday evening. In addition to this concert, supporters of the Festival are invited to join Dr. William Scheide in a tour of the Scheide Collection of Bach studying the composers and the music which will be presented at this concert. Tickets are priced at $2.50 for students and senior citizens and $5 for adults. For ticket information please call 924-5600, ext. 288.

SERKIN TO PLAY

At McCarter, Beethoven's last three piano sonatas — the culmination of the composer's monumental cycle of 32 and arguably the greatest single body of music ever written for the solo piano — will comprise Peter Serkin's program when the noted pianist returns to the McCarter series on

McCarter Recital by Richard Goode Is Marked by Pianistic Extroversion

Princeton University Concerts presented pianist Richard Goode in the fourth event of its Virtuosi in Recital series held at McCarter Theatre on Monday evening. Goode's program was drawn almost entirely from the first half of the nineteenth century: Sonata in G Major (Op. 79), Sonata in C sharp Minor (Op. 27, No. 2, "Moonlight"), and Sonata in D Major (Op. 28, "Pastoral"), all by Beethoven; and Schumann's "Fantasie" (Op. 17). Added to this was a twelve-tone work, "Ballade," written for the pianist by the American composer George Perle.

At first sight the program would appear to weigh a little heavily in favor of Beethoven. However, it would be difficult to find three works in the same genre by a single composer which are more dissimilar than these. The sonatina is small in scope and light in character, but incorporates many virtuosic passages; the "Moonlight" is most noted for its depth of expressiveness (barring its contrasting middle movement); and the Sonata Op. 28 is a work of pastoral repose. The combination of these pieces in a single performance amounts to a tricky bit of fine programming on the part of the pianist.

Goode seemed to be at his best in these three works. The sonatina was tossed off with considerable energy. Its sweeping runs were deftly played and the lift given to the third movement was particularly delightful. The tone of the "Moonlight's" first movement was subdued throughout. Goode's treatment of its lovely sustained melody was sensitive, but not overly affected. The final movement was very fast and facile, and the pianist made the most of its many sforzandi. A hyperactive pedal foot regrettably added some unneeded percussive effects to the piece, marring its most impassioned moments. The "Pastoral" Sonata was also played very expressively, but sounded much less pushed than did the previous work. Its folk-like melodies were allowed to emerge and develop freely, and Mr. Goode's control at the softest dynamic levels was sublime.

Monday, April 2. Stage seats are still available from the McCarter box office.

The three sonatas — No. 30 in E Major, Op. 109; No. 31 in A-flat Major, Op. 110; and No. 32, in C minor, Op. 111 — were all written by Beethoven between 1820 and 1822 while the composer was also working on his "Missa Solemnis." The tension, weight and density of his last works puzzled Beethoven musicians and scholars for generations, and the technical and interpretative problems they presented to performers were blamed on Beethoven's loss of hearing, which was thought to have separated him from musical reality.

Ever since his first public appearance in 1959 at the age of 12 at the Marlboro Music Festival, Peter Serkin has established himself as a pianist whose musical sympathies are broader than those of virtually any young musician currently before the public. His repertoire ranges across every musical style.

KALEIDOPHOTO: Macrophotographs, larger-than-life images in larger-than-living color offer a new view of the familiar and a close-up of the scientifically exotic at the Squibb Gallery.

FANTASTIC IMAGES
At Squibb, "Curiouser and curiouser" is probably the easiest way to begin a description of "Kaleidophoto," the current exhibition at the Squibb Gallery. The stunning display of macrophotographs,
a collection of larger-than-life scientific photography in larger-than-living color, resembles nothing so much as the unlikely world that Alice discovered once inside the looking glass.

Like the diminutive heroine, the viewer is confronted with an assortment of fantastic images whose heroic scale and dramatic affect would have made the legendary Alice feel right at home. For in these unusual pictures—microscopic views of both the Drawings Gallery, includes the work of many of the best known English artists of that period. Hogarth, Constable, Blake, Turner, Ruskin and Romney are among those represented by pencil sketches, delicate watercolor, chalk drawings and etchings.

Like many of the displays offered in this small gallery, this one is staged in a manner that invites comparison and,
as such, creates a richer viewing experience. Small landscapes—watercolors and drawings—are grouped, an arrangement that provides an opportunity to compare such stylistic statements as Turner's fluid, nearabstractions with more traditional fare. Figurative works are also presented as a unit, and, here, it is possible to contrast delicate, softly toned chalk sketches with the precise lines of an ink drawing and to view romantic and for-malist styles in conjunction with more sparse notation.

At McCarter Theatre, The Princeton Art Association
Juried Print exhibition, an impressive gathering of style and technique, offers a broad view of the varied forms that characterize contemporary printmaking. Hand cast

ART

familiar and scientifically exotic—the subjects have been transformed into enormous abstractions using innovative combinations of the photographer's art. In fact, the collection opens the door on a world that resembles a science fiction setting rather than bits and pieces of real life.

In the process of developing the series that frequently seems more like abstract expressionist painting than scientific notation, Squibb
staff photographer Charlotte Raymond has created imaginative color relationships through the introduction of light and the use of gels. She has also manipulated her images at times, making artful combinations of pattern and intricate balances by reversing and pairing negatives. The results—intense color statements, complex spatial constructions and subtle tonal relationships—create effects that frequently take on the character of avant garde contemporary surface painting.
"I can create something beautiful from quite ordinary objects by just moving in close," she says, adding... "I try not to destroy the original quality of my subject but to give it new life."

Raymond's subjects range from the drugs, chemicals and laboratory equipment in the Squibb facility to a complex composition based on a detail of the company's anniversary flag. There are studies of beads of water, petri dishes, petri dishes and mixing vats—even an exhaust vent. As they appear, however, they more often resemble lunar landscapes, whirlpools of color, and, sometimes, hard-edge
geometric design. Scintillating color refracts and recombines. Repeated shapes merge into intricate areas of pattern, and Raymond's way with light and shadow is nothing short of phenomenal.

papers, monotypes, traditional intaglio techniques, lithography, collagraph, soft ground etching and mixed media work offer a virtuoso display of the printmaker's craft.

Style, too, ranges wide in this collection. The display includes both ends of the creative spectrum — fine, carefully rendered realism and a variety of non-objective and abstracted forms — as well as good examples of many of the artistic permutations and combinations that fall between the two extremes.

WINNERS

At Tri-County Show, Two Princeton artists received Honorable Mention in the recent Annual Painting Exhibit of the Tri-County Art Association. The judge was Elizabeth Ruggles, painter and teacher. Artists are Lois Godfrey, who was cited for her "June Still Life" and M.J. Orcutt whose award was for "Hamden Bay." Juliet Bloor of Lawrenceville won second prize for "Annie's Dish" and Kathryn Wright of Cranbury received Honorable Mention for "Moon Over the Mountain."

The exhibit will remain through April 1 at the Gourgau Gallery, Old Cranbury School, Main Street, Cranbury. Hours are 1-4 Saturdays and Sundays, 10-noon and 2:15-4:15 Tuesdays and Thursdays. Information about special hours by appointment may be obtained by calling 448-8967.

STUDY ART

With Tri-County, classes for adults and children form the curriculum for the spring schedule of the Tri-County Art Association. Registration is required, and classes will start March 31.

Among classes for adults are painting in all media, to be taught by Elizabeth Shore; all levels of watercolor, to be taught by Barbara Cook and Sharon Henneborn's "Creative Pottery." Jacqueline Burke will teach advanced watercolor and Ruth Bruh, acrylics or watercolor. Ms. Shore will also give a class in landscape painting or sketching.

For children, Barbara Cook will give classes for grades 1-3 and 7-12, and a class in multi-media techniques.

Detailed information may be obtained by calling 448-8967.

PAINT IN ITALY

With Vincent Ceglia. For the tenth year, artist Vincent Ceglia, professor of visual arts at Mercer County Community College, will lead a painting workshop in Italy, this time in the northern lake region on Lake Maggiore, 45 minutes from Switzerland.

Dates are June 5-25 and June 27-July 17. Painting sessions will be held daily except Mondays and the weekends. Studio space is in a small hotel in the lake in the village of Ispra.

The workshop is open to all age groups and all levels of experience. Non-painting participants are welcomed on a limited basis.

For additional information, call 215-493-498 or write Professor Ceglia, R.D. 1, Washington Crossing, Pa. 18977.

EXHIBITS

Paintings by Anthony J. Conte will be exhibited at the Hopewell Frame Shop and Gallery from April 3 to May 12. The 21-year-old artist paints large canvasses in vivid realistic-romantic style. He exhibited at the Shop last year.

Oils by Karen Foote will be shown at the University League from April 8 to May 8, Mondays through Fridays from 9:30 to 1. Intricate precisely painted geometric patterns recall the influence of Byzantine mosaic design and Islamic prayer rugs. The artist has exhibited in the Firestone library's graphic arts collection and last year, received a merit prize at the Mercer County Artists exhibit.

DON'T START ANOTHER DIET TILL YOU CHECK WITH DIET CENTER!

Their Program WORKS And it's TOTALLY NATURAL!

At 5'4" and 195 pounds, I was about ready to throw in the towel. I had tried to lose weight but nothing seemed to work. Then I checked with Diet Center. In that first introductory consultation, I knew I had found the answer! The diet was great and I was never hungry or moody as I had been before. But the real difference was the daily support from a counselor who really cares and understands.

I LOST 75 POUNDS IN JUST 24 WEEKS!

Now I can't pass a mirror or a store window without stopping to look at myself — and I like what I see, a whole new me! My family and friends are so proud of my success and my entire outlook on life is great! I agreed to tell my story in advertising because I know what it is like to try to lose weight, to fail and to blame myself for it. Now I know that on the right program anybody can lose weight, and Diet Center has the right program!

Tigers' Cinderella Story Cut Short This Year; Trip to NCAA Ends with 68-56 Defeat by UNLV

This year's Cinderella story for the Princeton basketball team is one chapter shorter than the 1983 version: the hoped-for upset at Salt Lake City never materialized.

Twelve months ago the Tigers knocked off Big Eight Champion, Oklahoma State, in the first round at Corvallis, Oregon, giving rise to expectations they might pull off a similar feat last Thursday night. Instead, they met a Nevada-Las Vegas team that more than matched the Orange and Black in ball control, and won, 68-56.

Unfortunately for Princeton fans, oddsmakers who don't believe in fairy tales were almost right on the money with their 15-point spread in UNLV's favor.

SPORTS

Dreams of a Tiger victory rested on the hope that the Runnin' Rebels might not be short in the rebounding type of contest, and would eventually begin to panic if Princeton could stay with them throughout the game. It worked in the first 20 minutes, as the Orange and Black left the floor at the intermission, trailing by only three, 28-25. But, the winners quickly increased that advantage to nine in the second half, and Princeton never could close the gap.

"We didn't get them to worry," commented coach Pete Carril. "We had to get them to think about losing, but we couldn't. And that was about it."

If Nevada-Las Vegas ever entertained any thoughts of defeat, they evaporated with its 26-for-41 shooting from the floor, while the Tigers were 22 for 40. And the two players most responsible for this were not even among coach Jerry Tarkanian's starting five.

Strength off the Bench. Both Eric Booker and Ed Catchings came off UNLV's bench to pump in 18 points apiece, enabling the winners to maintain their comfortable second-half lead. No Ivy team, including Princeton, has the ability to counteract depth like that.

If a bit outclassed, the Bengals were never embarrassed, however. They never allowed the Runnin' Rebels to live up to their nickname, working patiently for good shots. Howie Levy had his best game of the season, scoring 24 points. Kevin Mullin followed with 18. Levy particularly owed many of his baskets to the superb passes of Billy Ryan, who finished with seven assists. The backdoor play worked on several occasions.

But the Tigers came up short in the rebounding department against the bigger opposition, losing the boards 24-15. Content to play at Princeton's pace, the winners then throughout the game worked for good shots, and often got the offensive carom minutes, as the Orange and Black left the floor at the intermission, trailing by only three, 28-25. But, the winners quickly increased that advantage to nine in the second half, and Princeton never could close the gap.

To its credit, Princeton fought back from a nine-point deficit in the first half to close within three. In the second, UNLV built the margin up to 11, 42-31, and the teams pretty much traded baskets thereafter.

The Tigers kept trying to make something happen, but the winners never had any reason to become rattled.

The season ends with

HIS BEST GAME CAN'T SAVE TIGERS: Princeton University's Howie Levy (31), being fouled by a University of Nevada at Las Vegas player, had his best offensive game of the season last week, pouring in 24 points. But it failed to prevent the Tigers from being eliminated, 68-56, from the NCAA Tournament's western division playoff by the Runnin' Rebels.

Mullin, Ryan Make All-Ivy Team; Carrabino Named Player of the Year

Princeton seniors Kevin Mullin and Billy Ryan were among six players named to the all-Ivy basketball team in voting by the league's coaches. Both second team honors and honorable mention eluded the other Tiger starters.

Mullin along with junior Joe Carrabino of Harvard and senior Butch Graves of Yale was a unanimous pick. Ryan was fourth in the voting, ahead of seniors Paul Anderson and Brian Burke of Dartmouth.

Carrabino was the overwhelming choice for Ivy Player of the Year with 31 points; Ryan placed second with 17, and Graves third with 14. Cornell's hot shooting freshman John Bajusz ran away with Rookie-of-the-Year honors, tabbing 29 votes. Penn's center Bruce Lefkowitz followed with 17, Harvard's Arne Duncan was third with 14.

Five juniors were picked for the all-Ivy second team, including Ken Bantum of Cornell, Chris Kelly of Yale, Bob Ferry of Harvard, Karl Racine of Penn, and George Meikle of Columbia. Penn's Anthony Amolie, Brown's Stark Langs, Cornell's Brad Bomba and Bajusz received honorable mention.

For the third consecutive year, Graves won the league scoring championship, scoring 330 for a 23.6 average. He was also a first-team selection last season. Mullin averaged 16.8 points per game with a shooting percentage of 62. He was also 10th in rebounding. Ryan had no competition as the league's leader in assists, averaging six a game.

Sports in Princeton

Princeton sporting a fine 18-10 mark, and light years away from an opening loss to Bucknell in Jadwin. Fortunately, Carril will have several months to prepare more magic for next season.

He loses both Ryan and Mullin from the starting five. Harvard looks to be very strong next winter with both Joe Carrabino and Bob Ferry returning. Cornell will have Ken Bantum and John Bajusz.

The experts will say he can't possibly win another title, but after this year they won't be saying it very loudly.

TIGERS FACES HOPKINS

Saturday in Lacrosse.

Princeton's varsity lacrosse team, with one win, one loss, and one game apparently lost to the weather, will face perennial power Johns Hopkins this Saturday at 2 p.m. on Finney Field.

The team evened its record by defeating the University of Maryland at Baltimore County last week, 11-10, and then was scheduled to open its home season against Army on Sunday. But the field was declared unplayable and Princeton declined Army's invitation to play the game instead at West Point. The Tigers had arranged a similar change of venue for the opening game against Hofstra and ended up being trounced, 13-7. The Army game will not be rescheduled.

TIGER 9 REBOUNDS

On Southern Swing. After opening its season with five straight losses, the Princeton University baseball team suddenly reversed its fortunes in Florida, defeating Creighton and Rollins handily and tying Maryland before closing out its southern road trip with a narrow loss to Jacksonville.

The Tigers' home opener scheduled for Wednesday against Seton Hall has been postponed indefinitely; the next scheduled game at Clarke Field is Friday against Swarthmore, beginning at 3 p.m.

The team struggled back onto campus Monday night with a 2-6-1 record, but with some reason to believe that the rebuilding program of Coach Tom O'Connell is beginning to jell. The team's individual statistics already are dominated by freshmen and sophomores.

Sophomore Dan Arendas of West Windsor leads the team in batting with a .440 average and 11 base hits. Freshmen Todd Tucker and Drew Stratton collected 13 hits apiece in Florida and posted averages of .419 and .361 respectively. Those three and sophomore Tom Urquhart, with eight hits, were the only Tigers to bat above .300. All but one of the remaining Princeton players batted below .200.

Pitching performances in Florida were shoddy, but sophomore Scott LaForest registered a respectable 1.93 earned run average, allowing 11 hits in 14 innings while striking out 11 and walking nine. Bill Beard had a 3.1 ERA in 20 innings pitched, striking out 12 and walking 11. He gave up 22 hits. The third leading pitcher in terms of ERA was another one of O'Connell's freshmen, Joe Pape. He struck out 10 and walked 8 in 12 innings, with an ERA of 3.75.

TIGER TAKES SECOND

In NCAA Wrestling. Princeton wrestler John Orr, a junior in the 142-pound class, fought his way into the finals of the NCAA wrestling tournament at the Meadowlands Arena earlier this month, before losing to Jesse Reyes of California-Bakersfield, 19-11. Orr had his opponent in a hammerlock and nearly pinned as time ran out.

Another Princetonian, sophomore Dave Crisanti, 118 pounds, lost in the second round to the No. 1 seed by a 12-11 score. Both Orr and Crisanti were undefeated in 23 matches during the Tigers' dual meet season.

HENDRICKSON RESIGNS

As Hun AD, Coach. Bob Hendrickson, who guided the Hun School basketball team to 43 victories the past two seasons, has resigned as the school's athletic director and basketball coach.

Kathy Quirk, the women's director of athletics, will finish out the remainder of Hendrickson's term as AD. Headmaster G. Gerald Donaldson said that he expects to fill the two vacant positions from within the school, adding "They may not be the same person in both positions."

Hendrickson is headed for New York to start a training session for his new job as Regional Director of Marketing for Aramis men's cologne, a division of Estee Lauder. Assigned to the Midwest, he and his family, he said, will move to St. Louis.

A better financial opportunity was the reason Hendrickson gave for stepping down. "It was an outstanding offer, one I just couldn't pass up."

up," said Hendrickson. "I have a son in college and a daughter graduating from high school; that's the primary reason."

Hendrickson came to Hun from Newark Academy four years ago, taking over for David Leete who had held both the AD and basketball coaching positions for more than a decade. At Newark, he had coached the school's football team for 22 seasons and the basketball team for 21.

He also coached the baseball team for nine years and had stints at coaching the track, golf and girls softball teams as well. On April 14, he will become the tenth person to be inducted into the Newark Academy Hall of Fame.

At Hun, Hendrickson quickly established himself as a winning coach, guiding the Raiders to a state Division A prep school state title last year and finishing second the past two in the Mercer County Tournament. His career record at Hun is 69-43.

Looking back, the personable Hendrickson, who also served as a college counselor at Hun, acknowledged that he will miss the friendships that he had developed during his stay at Hun among the students, parents and faculty. "The relationships—that's what I'll miss the most. Everyone here at Hun has been great."

Over the years, the personable Hendrickson, who was a class coach on and off the court, liked to comment that his chief goal was not to win games but to play the top teams in the area which would, in turn, force his players to play up to their potential. He wanted to bring credibility to the Hun sports program.

Done My Job. "I've done my job for them," he said. "There are a lot of talented people here. I certainly feel that I've fulfilled my responsibility to develop the basketball program here and maintain the level of credibility of Hun athletics."

Hendrickson reported he had worked for the Estee Lauder firm the past two summers as a production manager. "This was not all of the finals, 31-11, and Bill Kurtain and Jeff Kerr in a sudden," he said.

His wife is a teacher in Mountain Lakes school system and his daughter is senior at Newark Academy. They will join him in St. Louis in June.

LAWYERS TOP FIELD

In Tennis Benefit. Scott Stoner and Jack McCarthy III, lawyers with the Princeton firm of McCarthy and Schatzman, won the third annual tennis benefit for the National Junior Tennis League of Trenton, a city-wide tennis program for youth. The tournament drew 28 doubles teams, consisting of lawyers, doctors, teachers, and business people, and raised more than $1,600 for the National Junior League of Trenton.

The team from McCarthy Stoner and Schatzman defeated John Wysocki and Rich Welter in the finals, 31-11, and Bill Kurtain and Jeff Kerr in a sudden, he said.

His wife is a teacher in Mountain Lakes school system and his daughter is senior at Newark Academy. They will join him in St. Louis in June.

STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD

Here's an amazing sports story. Ray Ewry, confined to a wheel chair as a child, grew up to win more Olympic gold medals than any other person in history. To strengthen his legs as a child, Ewry, of Lafayette, Ind., began various exercises, and after being able to leave his wheel chair he trained to become a track star. In the 1900, 1904 and 1908 Olympics, Ewry won a total of 10 gold medals—and no one else has ever won that many.

I bet you didn't know that many health insurance plans, including Blue Cross Blue Shield do not cover children after they reach 19 years old.

When was the only time in history that the NCAA basketball tournament had the same two teams in the final game two straight years? It happened when Ohio State and Cincinnati met in the title game in 1961 and 1962. Cincinnati won both years.

There's a successful head coach in the National Basketball Association. Dick Motta—who, oddly enough, never played pro, college OR high school basketball! Despite his lack of playing, Motta has been an NBA coach for 16 years and was named "Coach of the Year" in 1971. Another oddity is that Motta had NEVER seen an NBA game in person until he coached in one, in 1968.

PHS Nine Has Strong Pitching Staff; Catching Is Key to Successful Season

It places a burden on the infielder-pitcher, who shoulders of an untested Becham brought up last year player, but Princeton High in mid-season as a sophomore, baseball coach Ed Becham and two from the jayvee squad says one of the big keys to the success of the Little Tiger squad will be whether John Jr. The only lefthander, Blankstein makes it as the team's starting catcher.

The reason Blankstein is the key, points out Becham, who guided PHS to a 7-14 record last year in his first season as head coach, is that he has two catchers now — Mickey Carnevale and Dino D'Angelo — who caught in spots last year behind veteran Ralph Carnevale, who graduated. The problem is D'Angelo and Carnevale are his starting shortstop and second baseman.

"If Blankstein proves he can throw — get the ball to second — we will be very strong right up the middle with (Gavin) Hulsman in centerfield," said Becham. "If Blankstein can't make it, I'll be forced to put Dino behind the plate and break in a new shortstop."

A junior, Blankstein caught for his freshman team and was behind the plate last year for the junior varsity. "Up to now his arm has been suspect but he's improving and he's very eager," Becham commented. "If he can do the job, he'll help make us a better team all around."

"So, I'm optimistic. I'm optimistic every year I coach," said Becham, who has been coaching various sports at PHS for a decade. "I probably should be pessimistic but I'd rather be optimistic. I think we have a shot with this team of qualifying for the state tournament."

Princeton will open its 19-game regular season next Monday, April 2, at home against Lawrenceville.

If the Little Tigers have another strength it is in pitching. Becham feels, where he welcomes back three starters. They are Hulsman, a junior right-hander who posted the best record, three wins and one loss, and two seniors, John Sherin and D'Angelo. Between them, Sherin and D'Angelo won two and lost eight.

Also, Mike Petrone, an

Hole at First. He has a few holes to fill in his lineup, Becham acknowledged, the biggest of which is finding a replacement for Cris Hoover at first base. Hoover was second in batting last year with a .327 average and was a fine defensive player. "It's probably our most glaring position and someone has to come around," said Becham.

Two he is looking at are junior Jim Opperman and Trotman. Other gaps exist in the outfield where veteran Jason Petrone returns to join Hulsman in centerfield.

"When Gavin pitches we'll need two, so we have a few holes but I would rather have holes at first and in the outfield than pitching and catching," stated Becham. "So we may surprise some people this year."

consists of a new jayvee coach Rob Vivens and freshman coach Bob Stuart.

Vivens graduated from Princeton University in January and is a social studies and history teacher at Princeton High. He was an assistant coach for the junior team while a student at Columbus Academy in Ohio and has had two years experience coaching baseball in summer leagues. "He gets along well with the kids which means a lot," said Becham.

"A great coach who knows a lot about the game," is the way Becham described Stuart. Unlike the Ewings and Hamiltons, Becham commented, Princeton doesn't get to teach most of its players until they reach ninth grade. "It's great to have a guy at that level who knows all the phases of the game. The kids just love him; he's a great guy."

The current freshman quad, incidentally, is another one mentioned by Becham. There's 16 out for the team — perfect size — and we feel it's one of our better freshman teams," he said. "It looks like there are a few athletes on the team which means we shouldn't be going down hill in the sport — which is difficult with our enrollment going down every year."

Newcomer on Schedule. A newcomer on the schedule this year is Tom's River South, which the Little Tigers will play away. The remainder, which will be Colonial Valley Conference league foes.

Again, as in basketball, PHS will play the larger schools in the league once — Steiner, Hamilton, Ewing, Hightstown, McCortist and Notre Dame — and schools its size twice — Lawrence, Hopewell Valley, Nottingham and West Windsor.

However, until the league manages to straighten out its scheduling problems created by the infusion of new teams, the first time PHS plays schools its own size the outcome will not count in the league standings.

"We then play five big schools in a row and we'll be lucky if we are 2-3 before we play any teams in our own conference," commented Becham, shaking his head.

That led to Bergey's Second Law: "Little League is a baseball program using boys. The YMCA is a boy's program using baseball."

Today the law has been amended to include girls, but the principle is intact. According to YMCA Physical Director and League Coordinator John Matune, the key is giving children the chance to play, and challenging boys and girls by increasing their skill levels.

This year the Midget League, for 9 to 12 year olds, and the "T" Ball League (so called because the ball is placed before the batter on a tee, rather than pitched), for children 6 to 8 years old, begin on April 30. The season is preceded by a 5-week Baseball Instruction Clinic to be held on Saturday mornings at the YMCA beginning March 31.

The teams are sponsored by area clubs and businesses — the Rotary Club of Princeton is entering its 34th season — and coached by volunteers. Uniforms, umpires, and a gala awards picnic are all part of the tradition.

He picks Notre Dame, which won the CVC title last year, to be the team to beat again this spring. "Ewing is always up there and Steiner and Hamilton are tough competition."

"It's a tough conference."

There will be two games a week for each of the eight teams during the 7-week season. Game time is 6, and warm-ups begin at 5.

FIVE SWIM MEDALS
For Princeton Physician. Dr. William F. Haynes Jr. is a physician who practices what he preaches.

An internist and cardiologist at the Medical Center of Princeton, Dr. Haynes last week captured three firsts and two seconds in a pentathlon event in a Masters Meet held at the New York City College pool. The event consists of four 50-yard races in the freestyle, back stroke, breast and butterfly. The four are then combined into a 100-yard individual medley — 25 yards for each stroke. Dr. Haynes, who swims every day during his lunch hour in Dillon Pool on the Princeton University campus, won the freestyle, butterfly and breaststroke races and came in second in the other two. "I was lucky all day," he said.

There's really not much to it," he said. "It's just something nice you can point to every month."

Swimmers from four states competed in the meet, although Dr. Haynes reports there were not that many — about 20 — in his 55-59 age group. His best time was in the 50-yard free, he said.

For Tennis Courts. Season tickets for the use of the 15 tennis courts at Community Park are now available, the Princeton Recreation Department has announced. The courts will open April 7.

A season ticket entitles the holder to use the courts at any time during the week or weekend. Members may reserve courts one and one-half days in advance by signing up in person or by calling the Recreation Office at 921-9480 at designated times.

Season memberships are available to Princeton residents and non-residents. Fees for Princeton residents are $30 for adults 18 and over and $15 for those 60 and over and 17 and under; for non-residents, fees are twice the resident rate.

College. She has a 12-year-old daughter in the Middle School and a seven-year-old son at Community Park. The Muzyks have lived in Princeton nine years.

"The biggest thing confronting the school board is preparing for decreasing enrollment at the high school," Mrs. Muzyk believes. "The board is working on these problems now, and I'd like to, also. My expertise is in educational development programs, and I believe I can contribute ideas."

Harry Levine

"How do we solve the problem of a smaller high school without losing our identity? If we hook up with West Windsor-Plainsboro — they are huge! Could we do it, realistically? Hopewell and Montgomery have a problem similar to ours — could we share educational responsibilities with our neighbors? We could have specialized high schools — arts, sciences — if we hooked up with several districts.

Individualized Programs. "We must individualize our educational program, if we don't have access to other student bodies; for example, a math class where students do different kinds of math at different levels at the same time, and one teacher works with students doing algebra, calculus, or whatever. That single teacher would be less expensive than one teacher for five advanced students."

Mrs. Muzyk speaks enthusiastically of her work a few years ago on hazardous-route busing. Named by Township mayor Josie Hall, she joined with other parents to "fight for the survival of such busing. We did win, and hazardous-route busing is still with us. My work on busing led to my interest in school affairs."

Madden, Hugh Brandt is a former member of the board of the Middle School PTO and was on the School Closing Committee.

A resident of Princeton for 12 years, he has a daughter in 12th grade, a son in ninth grade and a daughter in fifth grade. Mr. Brandt is vice-president of the J.L. Prescott Company of Passaic.

"I like kids, and I like to do things for and with them," he begins. "Also, the things I do routinely at work can benefit the board, things like planning, fiscal management and human resource development — people-oriented activities and general business orientation."

"My priorities are the development of programs to meet the needs of all students, and make sure that all students feel good about staff and I'm very well-versed themselves. We need improvement in the Long Range plan, have communication between the board and the PTO and parent groups. The board has set aside this 9 p.m. time at board meetings for people to the primary issues as stand up and talk — and very monetary ones, and he does few come. I'd like to talk to not believe Princeton is in groups — parents, and the like "dire financial straits."

He sees three essentials in keeping outstanding teaching and programs: support for teachers from board and administration; getting an outstanding instructional staff in the first place and establishing expectancy and accountability.

"I feel the Long Range plan is a good plan, as a framework, but it doesn't spell out all the answers. We must keep working on it."

This candidate also feels "strongly" that upkeep of the physical plant must be ongoing. With the bond issue, he says, there are resources to get the plant in shape, and after that, there must be "year-by-year maintenance to keep it there."

He also wants to move ahead to assure safety of students at school, and he points out that the schools now have the money for parking designs that separate buses from parents' cars.

Implement Long Range Plan. Running for his second term on the school board, Harry Levine believes the sharpest focus of the next two or three years should be on implementing the Long Range plan. He was school board liaison to the Long Range planning committee.

Immediately, the problems he sees are restructuring the high school to accommodate an enrollment reduced from 1,100 to 750; placing greater emphasis on staff development and evaluating the elementary curriculum.

"To face the loss of all those high school students without losing any quality at all, is the big question. Board members must encourage staff and administration to come up with ideas, including even experiments."

"Staff development and support is the most critical of all. We do a good job now, but we must do more because our staff is our major asset."

Evaluation Needed. "Have we an outstanding elementary school program? I don't know. Can improvement bring us closer to an ideal? I want to see an evaluation."

"The board must be effective in seeing that the Long Range plan's ideas are implemented. I have a lot of good ideas. I also have the perspective of administration and students feel good about staff and I'm very well-versed themselves. We need improvement in the Long Range plan, have communication between the board and the PTO and parent groups. The board has set aside this 9 p.m. time at board meetings for people to the primary issues as stand up and talk — and very monetary ones, and he does few come. but when enrollment levels out, the cap pressure will be extreme. Right now, we have a financial breathing spell."

Mr. Levine does not see any "hot issues" in the campaign. "Debate, if any," he believes, "should focus on the Long Range plan and on the working-style of the board in carrying it out."

SPACE AVAILABLE

In YWCA Programs. Registration for spring programs at the YWCA will continue until the spring session begins on Friday.

There are still spaces available in spring offerings for youngsters. Pre-school children can participate in Happiness Is Music, Crafts for Little Bookworms, I Love a Parade, Games Kids Love to Play, and Where Does the Sun Go at Night. In Kendall Park, the YWCA offers Little Hands, Toddler Fun Club, and Crafts for Kids as outreach programs.

Opportunities for grade school youngsters include Expressions, a new art program for 10-14 year olds; Handcraft Sampler; Introduction to Calligraphy; Acting Improvisation; Munchie Madness for young gourmets and Back Pack Art.

Highlights of the Adult Department include Fiction and Non-Fiction, instruction in how to transform your experiences or events of everyday life into fiction, autobiography or feature articles. Making Your Move, a two-session program to provide strategies for dealing with the practical and emotional aspects of moving.

On Saturday, "An Invitation for Women: From Cocoon to Butterfly," will be presented. This one-session seminar-workshop will explore the ways women feel stuck and ways to become "unstuck."

Adult registration is also continuing for two support groups: For Divorced Women in Their Sixties, for older women whose long marriages have ended in divorce; and On

Your Own, for women at different stages of separation and divorce.

The Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department has openings in a full range of exercise, dance, and aquatics classes for all ages and levels of experience, including early morning exercise and swim classes, and Gymnastics for Boys (6 years old and up).

For further information on these and other programs, come to the YWCA, Paul Robeson Place, or call 924-5571.

Scholarships are available for women and children.
